'Saturday-night special' ban sought by chief

by JOE SWICKARD

Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood is proposing a village ordinance to ban the sale of a handgun known as the "Saturday-night special" now on sale at local sports shops.

The pistol is about 4-inches in length and holds five rounds of .22-caliber ammunition. The weapon, costing about $90, is made of stainless steel and is manufactured in the United States.

In a memorandum to Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, Calderwood termed the gun a "Saturday-night special" and asked that an ordinance banning them be drafted and approved.

CALDERWOOD SAID he was seeking the ordinance because of the gun's extremely small size and ease of concealment. He said he had never proposed any gun-control measures in the past.

"I always thought that the laws we had were adequate if they would only be enforced. But there is no reason for this gun. The only thing it is good for is concealing it," he said.

He said the size of the weapon and its method of loading and firing make it unsuitable for self-defense, hunting or target shooting.

The pistol is small enough to be hidden in the palm of the hand or inside a clenched fist, he said.

HE EXPRESSED similar concerns about .25-caliber automatic pistols, often called "purse pistols," but said the potential problems were greater from the mini-revolver.

To date, none of the mini-pistols have been used in the commission of a crime in the village, according to police.

However, one policeman said, "The mopes (criminals) would love to get a hold of them."

One local gun dealer said the mini-revolvers are more of a collectors item or a novelty than a weapon for self-defense or target practice.

The dealer said the pistol is "well machined" from high quality materials in comparison to low cost, imported handguns manufactured from

Indiana vote Tuesday key test for Reagan

From Herald news services

President Ford, running hard after his Texas drubbing Saturday, hit the campaign trail Sunday to block a triple header victory this week by Ronald Reagan's surging conservative bid for the Republican Presidential nomination.

The next tests come Tuesday in Georgia, Alabama and Indiana. Political observers say it is Indiana that Reagan really needs to win to make a contest of the nomination. If Reagan can beat Ford in the Midwest — the heartland of Republican strength and the President's power base — he certainly will have to be regarded as a comeback possibility at Kansas City in August.

If Reagan can't do it in Indiana, or perhaps Nebraska May 11, Reagan will continue to look like a regional candidate whose biggest primary win was tainted by George Wallace Democrats crossinsg over to vote for him in Texas, observers believe.

IN WASHINGTON, Ford was described as "obviously disappointed" by the Texas shutout. Press Sec. Ron Nessen said that Ford remained confident he would win on the first ballot and said the President had no plans to change his strategy in the upcoming primaries.

Ford planned to campaign in Indiana Sunday night and Monday morning and then fly to Birmingham, Ala., for a brief appearance.

In Indianapolis Sunday, Reagan savored his victory and said Texas put him even with Ford in delegate strength to the Republican National convention. He added the victory showed ". . . that the country does want a change in Washington and a reevaluation of our foreign policy and defense posture."

Reagan, who spent the day campaigning, said he believes he can win enough delegates to capture the GOP nomination.

"I am deeply grateful to the voters of Texas for providing me with today's dramatic victory," he said.

"The 96 delegates which were elected to support me in Kansas City next

Rebirth of Old West due with wagon train visit

The Old West rolls east through Arlington Park Race Track, Arlington Heights, Wednesday when the Bicentennial Wagon Train arrives in the Northwest suburbs.

Thirty Conestoga wagons, 200 outriders and a mock Indian raid shortly after 4 p.m. Wednesday will kick off a day of free music, horse shows and "the world's largest hoe-down."

The Hersey High School band will play in a victory march, followed that evening by the Forest View Jazz Band; Shivaree, a group from the Old Town School of Folk Music; and the 130-voice barbershop chorus, the Arlingtones.

A Western-style dinner dished out by the Arlington Heights Woman's Club will start about 5 p.m. Arlington Park will provide the food, tentatively planned as stew and sourdough bread, at a minimal cost as a nonprofit venture, and 30 members of the club and their husbands will provide the service.

A horse pageant, "From Cortez to Present," will take place, followed by a spotlight performance by Conversano Prima Donna, a Lipizzan stallion.

Stage shows will conclude with a performance by the Pennsylvania State University acting troupe. A giant square dance in the race track's two exhibition halls will climax the day.

After Wednesday, the wagon train will move on to its destination, Valley Forge, Pa.

Arlington Park Race Track is underwriting the event.

Three cheers for Boy Scouts

Northwest Suburban Boy Scouts celebrate 50 years of service in 1976, and just one of the jubilee festivities was a Scout-O-Rama at the Arlington Park Convention Center during the weekend.

Scout officials estimate 35,000 persons attended the two-day show, more than 10,000 Scouts participated in 247 exhibits ranging from rapelling to religion.

The Boy Scouts of America was incorporated Feb. 8, 1910, by William D. Boyce, a Chicago publisher.

In December 1919, Park Ridge organized the first Northwest suburban Scout troop. The Northwest Suburban Council was founded in August 1926. Since then, Scouting has grown to 459 Cub, Scout and Explorer organizations involving 13,517 Northwest suburban youths.

Scouts are planning a "Showando '76 Skill-O-Ree" for June and a "Golden Jamboree" in October.

Today

Mike Klein's people

Americans just love their telephones. When we are young and small, we have blankets and stuffed animals for good times. Then we become older and get telephones.

Alan Mann just loves his telephone. "I'm a talking kind of person. I like to communicate with friends," said Alan, a freshman accounting major at Northern Illinois University in cornbound DeKalb.

Since last October, Alan has been enamored with two young ladies, Debbie Selan and Robin Copeland.

That would not cause any problems, except that both girls live at the same University of Illinois dormitory in Champaign.

EVERY NIGHT, from mid-October to January, Alan would call Debbie. They'd talk about an hour.

"We didn't send that many letters," said Alan, who's from Glenview. "We talked and talked and talked."

In January, Debbie and Alan decided they should be only good friends. Each found new company.

ALAN BEGAN calling Robin. He would call every night and talk about an hour.

Alan has managed to accumulate $635 in phone expense since last October. Continental Telephone Co. of Illinois began to wonder about Alan Mann when payment did not follow billing.

ALAN HAS no campus job. He might have turned to his parents. But they paid a $63 phone bill for him last year and said, in effect, "Next time, it's all yours."

His parents heard about a $275 bill which Alan received in December. "It caused friction for quite a while," he admitted.

Alan paid the $275 bill by using his income tax return plus a $150 loan from a friend.

But then along came two more bills for $180 apiece. Now he was strapped. Alan sold his pocket calculator and record turntable.

That didn't help much. Continental Telephone put a collection agency on Alan's trail.

NOW HE WAS desperate. Alan decided on drastic action. He began selling 15,000 bonds at three cents each. They would mature at four cents in 1978.

But through last week, Alan had sold only 21 bonds for a gross profit of 63 cents.

Alan tried other schemes. "I wanted to send an inner-campus mailing that if you'd loan me $10, I'd pay back $12.50 in 1978," said Alan. "But I found out that was mail fraud. It seems like my ideas are either illegal or impractical."

A birthday cake scheme was impractical. Alan figured he could turn a profit delivering day-old, lettered birthday cakes to NIU freshmen.

The cakes would be a present from the kids' parents. But Northern would not give Alan its list of incoming frosh.

Today, Alan Mann sits in his Lincoln Hall room, studying for final exams, pondering the possibility of making some cash this summer driving a cab or helping tune pianos.

CONTINENTAL TELEPHONE shut off Alan's local service for a while, but they finally relented and let Alan talk again with other DeKalbians.

Alan has begun calling Robin on a pay telephone. "It costs $1.40 for three minutes," he said. They write letters, too.

Has Alan learned his lesson? "Yeah, I would say so. And if I haven't, I'm sure I will when my parents find out."

There actually are two morals to this story. Just because you like talking into the telephone receiver, that does not mean there must be anyone on the other end.

And when in DeKalb, do as the DeKalbians do: Date one.

ABCs of school strikes mulled

by PAM BIGFORD

Strikes — how to avoid them, how to hold them and how to win them.

These were the topics discussed by area teacher union leaders at a collective bargaining conference Saturday in Des Plaines.

Union leaders from East Maine Dist. 63 and Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, the two Northwest suburban districts that had teacher strikes last fall, were on hand to discuss their strikes and answer questions from other union leaders. Joining them were doctors from Cook County Hospital, who also were on strike this year.

ARTHUR NEIL, president of the Dist. 54 union, said he believed the strike occurred in Dist. 54 for four reasons:

- The board's professional negotiator "would not be honest and sincere in his dealings with our negotiator," he said.
- The board could not give its negotiator clear-cut direction because the board was split 4-3 on votes during the strike. Another factor was that the board refused to allow mediation, he said.
- "The board underestimated the organizational power of the teachers. They said we didn't have the guts to strike. They constantly pushed the teachers into a corner," he said.
- "The board never said it didn't have the money to give us," Neil said. "At every session, they told us they were fighting inflation, which was a damn flimsy excuse in our eyes. The money was available but they didn't want to give it to the teachers."

Neil said his advice to union leaders is to "get every teacher in your district registered to vote, and make sure they vote to get people on the board who are somewhat sympathetic to teachers' needs."

Neil said that criticism about being unprofessional by striking "is not a factor anymore because we've been bargaining for years." He said he believes it is more of a problem for doctors, who are just beginning to move into the areas of bargaining and striking areas.

Some union leaders asked Barbara Korb, Dist. 63 union president, and Neil if they had used any pressure on individual board members during the strike.

One union leader said he had heard of one union rallying its members to withdraw their money from a bank where a board member was employed in order to put pressure on the member through his employer.

NEIL SAID HIS union had rejected similar tactics "because this kind of thing causes more harm than good." He and Ms. Korb said they thought their actions had been "clean strikes on the issues."

Community support during a strike was downplayed in importance during the conference.

"Community support is not as important as it's made out to be," Ms. Korb said. "During our strike, there was pressure on the board from the community, but it wasn't in anyone's favor. It was pressure to settle."

She said the community was not "very sympathetic" to the union, but the teachers struck anyway.

Palatine man, 19, killed in car crash

A 19-year-old Palatine man was killed in a one-car auto crash Saturday on Meacham Road north of Algonquin Road in Palatine Township. Richard N. Ostrander, 306 W. Michigan, died shortly after 1 a.m. when the car he was driving sideswiped a van, became airborne and snapped a utility pole from the ground before crashing into a tree. Schaumburg firefighters took nearly 45 minutes to pull Ostrander's body from the wreckage. He was dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. Ostrander was reportedly alone in his vehicle at the time of the crash and no other injuries were reported.

Firemen, police settle contract

Hoffman Estates officials have reached tentative contract agreements with village firefighters and police. The village board tonight is expected to ratify the settlements reached late Friday night. Village negotiators and representatives of the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 40 and the Hoffman Estates Professional Firefighters' Assn. Local 2061 refused to disclose details of the tentative agreements until tonight's village board meeting. The FOP, representing the village patrolmen, Thursday had rejected the village's offer of a 5 per cent raise hike and resumed negotiations Friday to hammer out a new settlement.

Gripe list against Pikarsky readied by 4 RTA members

Suburban members of the Regional Transportation Authority Board are preparing a "white paper" outlining their grievances against RTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

The four, who have threatened to block passage of the budget unless Pikarsky resigns, have compiled more than 30 pages of complaints.

The four are Daniel Baldino of Evanston, Richard Newland of Waukegan, Eugene Leonard of Midlothian and Jerry Boose of South Elgin.

Baldino said the "white paper" focuses on Pikarsky's "administrative record or lack thereof, his judgment in suburban areas or lack thereof and his integrity or lack thereof."

BALDINO SAID HE has no definite date for release of the document and that it is not an attempt to gain public support in the suburban members' battle against Pikarsky.

The controversy between the suburban board members and Pikarsky surfaced last month, when the RTA chairman said he could not foresee any circumstances under which he would resign.

The suburban board members say they will not vote for the 1976-77 budget as long as Pikarsky is chairman. Baldino, however, said the four will work on both the budget and the RTA's five-year plan.

Baldino said the "white paper" is a logical step following the demand for Pikarsky's resignation. He said the suburban members have an obligation to outline their position in detail.

THOUGHTS ON A MATTRESS

Once upon a time there were three bears — Mama Bear, Papa Bear and Baby Bear. They had a nice little house on the edge of the forest.

One day the three bears went to the beach for the day and they forgot to lock the door to their little house. By and by along came Goldilocks, tripping through the forest. She had run away from home because her mattress was soft and lumpy and she couldn't sleep on it. Her Grandmother had said, "Why I slept on that mattress for forty years, and if it was good enough for me, it's good enough for you."

Goldilocks spied the Three Bears house, and when she found the door unlocked, she went in to try out their mattresses . . .

Papa Bear's mattress was a "Bleepy Bleep-O-Pedic" and it was too hard.

Mama Bear's mattress was a "Blurpy Blurp-A-Pedic" and it was too hard.

Baby Bear's mattress was a brand new mattress from Schaumburg Mattress Factory. It was so comfortable that the minute Goldilocks laid down on it she fell asleep.

When the Three Bears came home all sunburned and with sand in their shoes, they found Goldilocks still asleep. When they heard her sad story, they took her back to her Grandmother's house. Then they all went to the Schaumburg Mattress Factory and bought Goldilocks a new mattress. While they were there, Papa Bear and Mama Bear and Grandma all bought new mattresses, too. And they all slept happily ever after.

The moral of the story is that if you don't want Goldilocks to run away from home, buy her a new mattress at the Factory.

Indiana big Reagan test

August are enough, when added to those which I have already received in primaries and convention states so far, to give me as many committed delegates as Mr. Ford as of now."

The big Texas boost gave Reagan 235 delegates, compared with 306 for Ford. If Reagan wins the three states voting Tuesday, he will pass Ford in elected delegates. But Ford is expected to be the eventual recipient of 250 uncommitted delegates elected in Pennsylvania and New York.

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller said he did not think Texas damaged Ford.

Rockefeller said Reagan "had the South locked up" and won Texas for refusing to veto the energy bill which blocked deregulation of oil.

Jimmy Carter also sought to add wins Tuesday in Indiana, Georgia and Alabama to his Texas landslide. Such a showing would make him virtually unstoppable in the drive for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Carter and Reagan, two former governors, campaigning on similar anti-Washington themes, blitzed through Texas with amazing strength. Texas voters rejected their party leaders, most of whom lined up solidly behind Ford and favorite son Lloyd Bensten.

Reagan won all 96 delegate races, blocking Ford in every district of the state.

Carter won all but five of the 98 Democratic delegates — knocking off Bentsen — and apparently also finished first in the Democrat — only Louisiana primary.

Carter has won eight primaries, losing New York and Massachusetts, while Reagan added Texas to his North Carolina victory.

Carter held 451 delegates — nearing a third of the 1,505 needed for nomination — and more than twice the 204 held by his nearest rival, Sen. Henry Jackson, who dropped out of active campaigning over the weekend.

Reagan needed the Texas win to keep his campaign alive. But the landslide will help convince Indiana Republicans that he can win, and give strength to Reagan's claim that Ford is unelectable.

The Texas victory was a result of perhaps as many as 100,000 Democrats crossing party lines to vote for the Californian. There was no statewide tally of the presidential vote, but judging by the GOP Senate race, a record turnout of more than 200,000 voted in the Ford-Reagan race.

The Reagan victory came despite six days of campaigning in Texas by Ford — his most intense effort of the primary season. Ford left the state Friday night predicting victory.

Carter's win was equally impressive. Two million Democrats rejected Bentsen's bid to be a favorite son and heeded the Georgian's plea not to let Texas delegates be brokered at the convention.

Bentsen, who did win his bid for renomination to the Senate, won four delegates in his Rio Grande home territory and one more in San Antonio.

VICE PRESIDENT NELSON Rockefeller appeared on TV Sunday and said "The President lost every delegate in the Texas primary election because he refused to veto congress's energy bill."

Campaign law passage seen this week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress this week is expected to pass the long delayed federal campaign law reform — probably too late to provide the financial relief needed by most major presidential candidates.

Several have already quit campaigning — Sen. Henry Jackson only Saturday — and cited lack of funds as one reason. Others have seen fat campaign coffers dwindle toward debt since the Federal Election Commission stopped awarding matching funds under Supreme Court order in March.

The House has set a vote for Monday on a compromise campaign law reform bill approved by House and Senate conferees.

The Senate is expected to vote on the bill as soon as it passes the House, and it could reach Ford by Tuesday.

The bill would reconstitute the FEC along lines required by the court and make other campaign law changes opposed by President Ford, who could veto it.

(White House sources said Sunday Ford probably would sign the bill if there were no further changes in it.)

The Supreme Court said the FEC was unconstitutionally established because not all the six commissioners were appointed by the President. It suspended execution of the commission's major functions, including disbursement of federal matching campaign funds, as of March 23.

Seven presidential candidates — all the major contenders except Ford, who has plenty of campaign money — unsuccessfully asked the Supreme Court to release the estimated $2.4 million in FEC matching funds earmarked for them.

The most serious threat to passage lay in the Senate, where Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., threatened to filibuster the campaign law unless the leadership promises action on several other matters before July.

Weicker's filibuster, however, seemed unlikely to last more than a day.

Beirut hit by artillery barrages and intense gunfire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Thundering artillery barrages and intense gunfire rained on the Lebanese capital Sunday but presidential candidates braved the open warfare to campaign for the support of political leaders.

Right-wing Phalangists welcomed the resumption of U.S. envoy L. Dean Brown's fact-finding mission but leftists accused Brown of carrying "conspiratorial instructions from his masters."

Moslem leftists and Christian rightists battled along confrontation lines in Beirut's commercial and port districts Sunday. The fighting spread into the suburbs, the central Mount Lebanon area and the eastern Bekaa Valley.

At least 100 persons were killed and 250 wounded in the past 24 hours to raise the 13-month-long civil war's toll to more than 18,550 dead and 40,000 hurt.

Militiamen loosed barrages of mortar shells and rockets all over the capital and its suburbs Sunday morning. Beirut residents took refuge in their basements from the terror shelling.

A see-saw battle for the disputed port area raged into the afternoon, with gunmen pouring rocket, machinegun and automatic-rifle fire at opposing positions.

Presidential hopefuls Raymond Edde and Elias Sarkis braved the renewed fighting to boost their chances in parliament's vote next Saturday for a successor to President Suleiman Franjiah.

Edde, who has the support of Socialist chief Kamal Jumblatt's leftist bloc, met political leaders in Christian-held eastern Beirut and visited Maronite Patriarch Antonious Khreish at the Bkerke monastery, north of the city.

Sarkis, governor of the central bank, talked with politicians in the leftist-held western sector.

The right-wing Christian Phalangist radio, meanwhile, said Brown's return to Lebanon may "push the crisis anew to the international level so that it can be settled decisively this time."

But a leftist radio station accused the U.S. Envoy of bringing "conspirational instructions from his masters which the isolationists (rightists) will implement."

"Brown go home," the radio said.

Radio stations also reported that two delegations — one of parliamentary deputies and one of Palestinians — would visit Damascus soon to confer with Syrian officials on the flare-up that threatens Syria's peace initiative.

Elsewhere in the Mideast:

Israel beefed up its forces across the troubled West Bank Sunday to stop a planned Arab protest march from Ramallah to Jerusalem.

Arab sources said heavy concentrations of soldiers and green-bereted border police moved into key West Bank towns to prevent the Arabs' protest of last month's two-day hike by 20,000 Jews who went to Biblical Jericho to press for the total annexation of the West Bank.

Arab sources said security was tightest in Nablus, the largest town on the West Bank, where Israeli troops killed a young Arab Saturday during a violent May Day demonstration outside the town's old Casbah sestion.

It was the fifth reported Arab fatality in three months of violent Arab demonstrations demanding an end to Israeli occupation of the territory captured from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war.

The sources said the Nablus Casbah remained under curfew and a strike closed down all shops and businesses elsewhere in the town.

They also reported some skirmishes between rock-throwing youths and occupation troops patrolling nearby Palestinian refugee camps.

Strikes continue on the labor front

The nation had little good news on the labor front Sunday. In San Francisco, a proposal to end the walkout that has crippled bus and trolley service apparently has been rejected by striking craft unions after being amended by both sides. Members of the United Rubber Workers Union, demanding a $1.65 pay increase over three years, marched picket lines for the 12th day. Strikes by 13,000 teamsters against United Parcel Service and by 1,200 members of the Amalgamated Transit union against Continental Trailways entered their second day.

Capabilities of B1 bomber hit by Proxmire

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Sunday performance capabilities of the B1 bomber, including its ability to fly faster-than-sound, are "exaggerated or useless" when compared to missiles. In remarks prepared for Senate delivery Monday, Proxmire said plans to make the B1 fly faster than sound at low altitudes so it could sneak beneath enemy radar coverage have been dropped and "now it must use its supersonic capability at high or medium altitudes where it is vulnerable to radar detection." Proxmire said heat from the bomber's exhausts at supersonic speed would make it more vulnerable to heat-seeking antiaircraft missiles, and in any case the B1 could not fly fast enough to outrun Russian fighter planes.

Civilian mobilization begins in Rhodesia

Rhodesia's white minority government began the massive mobilization of civilians Sunday to help carry out a new "seek-and-destroy" offensive against black nationalist guerrillas. Authorities also announced that the main road to South Africa, closed two weeks ago by stepped-up terrorist activity, would be reopened to traffic under army escort. The twin moves followed a call by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for a negotiated settlement to end the racial dispute in southern Africa and avert a "tragic bloodbath."

Bureaus asked to move to Hanoi

The year-old Communist regime in Saigon has asked foreign consulates and news bureaus and most international agencies to close their South Vietnamese operations and move to Hanoi, capital of the new unified Vietnam. Beginning next Saturday authorities in Saigon told reporters, Hanoi would become the only point of origin for foreign news reports on Vietnam. All foreign consulates in Saigon with the exception of the French also will close by next weekend. The decision was part of the current program to reunify the two Vietnams with the capital in Hanoi, UPI correspondent Tran Dai Minh cabled from Saigon.

Aldo Moro's cabinet to set election date

Caretaker Premier Aldo Moro's cabinet meets Monday to set the date for early national elections that could bring Italy's Communist Party its first role in government since 1947. Politicans said June 20, a Sunday, almost certainly would be selected for the parliamentary elections. Moro's 11-week-old minority Christian Democrat government resigned Friday night and President Giovanni Leone dissolved parliament Saturday. Leone asked Moro and his cabinet to stay on in a caretaker capacity until Italy's 39th government in 33 years can be formed.

Toy-shaped containers OK: panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission said Sunday it will not forbid aftershave lotion and similar cosmetics from being packaged in bottles shaped like cars or other toys.

The agency had been petitioned to do so on grounds that children playing with such containers could spill the contents, creating a fire hazard if the liquid were flammable.

The petition, filed last July 17 by Roberta Madden, director of the Consumer Protection Center in Baton Rouge, La., cited one alleged incident of exploding cologne where the child involved was so badly burned his legs had to be amputated.

It also said children might have a tendency to drink the contents because of the nature of the bottles.

Cosmetics in such containers have been marketed chiefly by Avon.

The commission voted to deny the petition, saying there is no present evidence such packaging creates an unreasonable safety risk.

The petition cited one report, mentioned in a book and in congressional testimony, of a 2-year-old boy who "loosened the cap on one of these 'toys,' and fumes from the cologne ignited a space heater across the room. The boy was so badly burned he could not cry out, and his legs had to be amputated."

The commission staff said, however, it could not verify the incident.

Among other things, it said, there was a legal case over the accident which, in its settlement, provided "there be no further discussion of the case by either of the parties.

"Consequently, neither the lawyer for the child's family nor the family were willing to discuss the circumstances with the staff."

In any case, the study said, the flash point of the cologne involved is enough to rate it only "combustible," the lowest class of fire hazards under the law.

It said none of the commission's records "contained incidents which could be identified as involving toy-shaped cologne or after shave containers.

"The majority of the injuries associated with glass bottles and jars and fragrance preparations were ingestions or poisonings. No thermal burn injuries were reported."

Gigantic landslide on Colombia road kills 13

FRESNO, Colombia (UPI) — A gigantic landslide on Colombia's main east-west road across the Andes mountains buried four automobiles and a group of spectators early Sunday, municipal authorities said.

"The toll so far is 13 dead and 16 injured and we don't think there will be any more, because the road has been cleared," said German Espinosa, city clerk of Fresno.

Espinosa said public works crews reopened the road to traffic by noon — 10 hours after the 2 a.m. slide sent nearly 20,000 cubic yards of mud and rocks crashing onto the road.

Some 200 rescue workers from the civil defense department, the Red Cross and the public works ministry labored under intense rain to locate the victims.

Earlier, authorities feared that 10 buses which had been waiting on either side of the site, 10 miles west of Fresno, had also been buried by the rubble loosened by torrential rainfalls.

Espinosa said all of the buses were saved almost intact.

He said most of the dead and injured were bus passengers, who left the vehicles to watch crews clear rubble from an earlier slide.

Indiana big Reagan test

August are enough, when added to those which I have already received in primaries and convention states so far, to give me as many committed delegates as Mr. Ford as of now."

The big Texas boost gave Reagan 235 delegates, compared with 306 for Ford. If Reagan wins the three states voting Tuesday, he will pass Ford in elected delegates. But Ford is expected to be the eventual recipient of 250 uncommitted delegates elected in Pennsylvania and New York.

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller said he did not think Texas damaged Ford.

Rockefeller said Reagan "had the South locked up" and won Texas for refusing to veto the energy bill which blocked deregulation of oil.

Jimmy Carter also sought to add wins Tuesday in Indiana, Georgia and Alabama to his Texas landslide. Such a showing would make him virtually unstoppable in the drive for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Carter and Reagan, two former governors, campaigning on similar anti-Washington themes, blitzed through Texas with amazing strength. Texas voters rejected their party leaders, most of whom lined up solidly behind Ford and favorite son Lloyd Bensten.

Reagan won all 96 delegate races, blocking Ford in every district of the state.

Carter won all but five of the 98 Democratic delegates — knocking off Bentsen — and apparently also finished first in the Democrat — only Louisiana primary.

Carter has won eight primaries, losing New York and Massachusetts, while Reagan added Texas to his North Carolina victory.

Carter held 451 delegates — nearing a third of the 1,505 needed for nomination — and more than twice the 204 held by his nearest rival, Sen. Henry Jackson, who dropped out of active campaigning over the weekend.

Reagan needed the Texas win to keep his campaign alive. But the landslide will help convince Indiana Republicans that he can win, and give strength to Reagan's claim that Ford is unelectable.

High court expert says

Chances dim for housing block

by BILL HILL

The chances of Arlington Heights blocking construction of a proposed low-income housing project in the village have diminished with a recent U.S. Supreme Court housing decision, said a Supreme Court expert.

Philip M. Kurland, a University of Chicago law professor, called the high court's ruling that the federal courts can order federally funded, low-income housing in the suburbs to relieve inner-city segregation "Highly innovative."

"It surprised me because of its unanimity. Certainly, it doesn't decide your case, but it doesn't make me more hopeful that Arlington will prevail," Kurland said.

THE SUPREME COURT is scheduled to hear oral arguments in October in the village's case against the Metropolitan Housing Development Corp., which has proposed the 190-unit Lincoln Green development near St. Viator High School, Euclid Street and North Windsor Avenue.

The 5-year-old low-income housing question was appealed to the Supreme Court after an appellate court ruled that the village's refusal to rezone the St. Viator site was racially discriminatory.

Arlington Heights contends that the Lincoln Green project would be spot zoning and incompatible with the village's master plan.

"The Arlington Heights case is now the missing piece of the jig-saw puzzle in that it is the converse of the problem the court has just resolved," Kurland said.

OFFICIALS FROM both the village and housing corporation say the recent ruling may benefit them.

"I think this decision may help our situation this fall, since the ruling says the local building and zoning laws should be followed," Village Pres. James T. Ryan said.

"It shows an acknowledgment by the court of the applicability of local zoning codes," Ryan said.

Salvatore Ferrera, housing corporation executive director, said there are "critical similarities" between the two cases that indicate to him that the ruling by the 7th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals will be upheld by the Supreme Court.

"BOTH CASES HINGE on the fact that people's rights have been violated because they have been forced to live in inner-city ghettos, and in both cases, the appellate court has found a constitutional violation," Ferrera said.

"I put those two together and see the Supreme Court making the same type of decision and finding in favor of us. I don't see how they could do anything else," he said.

Ryan and Village Atty. Jack Siegel insist that the Lincoln Green case will be decided on the zoning question.

"There is no real relationship between these two cases. Ours has been a zoning case from the very beginning," Siegel said.

"I DON'T SEE this decision prejudicing our case. I'm not discouraged by it in any way. I just don't think this latest decision is as broad as many people would have us believe. I think that if we win our case, it will narrow the purview of that decision," Ryan said.

Conversely, Ferrera is convinced the Arlington Heights Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. case will not be decided on the zoning question.

"I don't think zoning will be an issue with the Supreme Court. I don't think they will allow zoning to preclude the housing we have proposed. They will look at the discrimination and rule on that," Ferrera said.

All summer jobs taken at village hall, parks

A near record number of summer job applicants already have snapped up the available positions offered by the village and the Arlington Heights Park District.

Youngsters hoping to land a part-time job with the village or through its job referral service also will be out of luck this year.

Gregory Ford, village personnel director, said there have been more than 65 applications for the village's 12 summer jobs. However, the jobs, in public works and clerical staffs, have been taken in most cases by those who held them last year.

ANGELO CAPULLI, park district superintendent of maintenance, said the 13 job openings for grounds crews and janitorial duties all have been filled. Again, the jobs were taken by those who worked for the district in the past.

"We're filled up already. We had 13 positions budgeted, but they are all filled now," Capulli said.

"I've got the work for them, but we just don't have the money to pay them," he said.

Capulli said he expected this year's number of applicants to at least equal last year's figure.

"LAST YEAR, THE number of kids looking for work was extremely high. I don't have the exact figure, but I know that it was more than we'd ever had before," Capulli said.

Mertin Taylor, park recreation director, said the 60 recreation jobs have been filled as well.

"Most of them come in at Christmastime or at least during Easter vacation at the latest to get the jobs locked up," Taylor said.

The village job picture is about the same, Ford reported, with employes from last summer already having signed up for this year.

"PRIORITY IS GIVEN to past employes as long as their work record was OK," he said.

The village jobs are with the public works department or involving clerical duties. The pay for the summer help is $3 to $3.25 an hour depending upon experience.

The park district scale is lower, beginning at $2.25 an hour up to $3.25 an hour.

The money crunch eliminated several part-time positions with the village. Ford said in past years, students could find part-time work in study-related fields such as the village's planning or engineering departments.

"THIS YEAR there's no money in the budget for those positions," he said.

A village job-referral service initiated last year to help local youngsters find summer work will not be operational this year because of a lack of response from employers.

Although 150 to 200 youngsters signed up last year, Ford said the number of teenagers finding work through it was minimal.

The service allowed youngsters to register with the village and persons needing help could draw upon the list.

"Nothing much happened, as far as jobs go. We got the response from the kids but there weren't many jobs," he said.

The service was well publicized through the village newsletter and newspaper articles, he said.

"We know people heard about it because kids signed up for it. But maybe people just hired the kids they knew already," he said.

Unit school issue before Dist. 59 Board tonight

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education will discuss the unit school district study committee's report today at 8 p.m. at the administration center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The report, which was presented to the board last Monday, recommended the board aid the legal process of putting the issue of creating a Dist. 59 unit district before the voters.

A unit district would place elementary and high schools under one school board and administration.

Before the board was presented with the report, a committee of 10 residents filed a petition with the county schools superintendent asking for a referedum on the issue. The board last week also approved hiring the legal firm of Reid, Ochsenschlager, Murphy and Hupp to help with pursuing the unit district movement.

The unit district committee presented the board with its final report and recommendation because the committee was formed at the board's request.

Because the committee of 10 is the legal body dealing with the unit district issue, the board is not legally required to take any action on the report or recommendation.

The proposed unit district would have boundaries contiguous with Dist. 59 and include Forest View and Elk Grove high schools in addition to the Dist. 59 schools.

inferior "pot" metals.

THE DEALER questioned whether the mini-revolver would fall under a strict definition of a "Saturday-night special" because of its price and quality of construction.

He said that while the gun has provoked comments about its size from customers, not many have been sold.

The gun, police said, is governed by the same regulations as other firearms. A state firearm owner's identification card is required for its purchase, and carrying it would be a violation of the concealed weapons laws.

If Calderwood's efforts to ban the sale of the gun are successful, it would be the first gun-control law of its type enacted in the Northwest suburbs.

Motorist injured when car hits light

A car traveling at an estimated 75 m.p.h. Saturday morning crashed into a traffic island and stoplight standard at the intersection of Northwest Highway and Countryside Road, injuring the driver, Palatine police reported.

Police ticketed Jose O. Sais, 33, of 1101 Lee St., Des Plaines, for failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Sais suffered head lacerations, police said.

A passer-by told police Sais' car was eastbound on Northwest Highway when it overshot a curve and struck the stoplight. No brakes were applied, the witness said.

Three passengers in Sais' car were not injured, police said.

High court expert says

Chances dim for housing block

by BILL HILL

The chances of Arlington Heights blocking construction of a proposed low-income housing project in the village have diminished with a recent U.S. Supreme Court housing decision, said a Supreme Court expert.

Philip M. Kurland, a University of Chicago law professor, called the high court's ruling that the federal courts can order federally funded, low-income housing in the suburbs to relieve inner-city segregation "Highly innovative."

"It surprised me because of its unanimity. Certainly, it doesn't decide your case, but it doesn't make me more hopeful that Arlington will prevail," Kurland said.

THE SUPREME COURT is scheduled to hear oral arguments in October in the village's case against the Metropolitan Housing Development Corp., which has proposed the 190-unit Lincoln Green development near St. Viator High School, Euclid Street and North Windsor Avenue.

The 5-year-old low-income housing question was appealed to the Supreme Court after an appellate court ruled that the village's refusal to rezone the St. Viator site was racially discriminatory.

Arlington Heights contends that the Lincoln Green project would be spot zoning and incompatible with the village's master plan.

"The Arlington Heights case is now the missing piece of the jig-saw puzzle in that it is the converse of the problem the court has just resolved," Kurland said.

OFFICIALS FROM both the village and housing corporation say the recent ruling may benefit them.

"I think this decision may help our situation this fall, since the ruling says the local building and zoning laws should be followed," Village Pres. James T. Ryan said.

"It shows an acknowledgment by the court of the applicability of local zoning codes," Ryan said.

Salvatore Ferrera, housing corporation executive director, said there are "critical similarities" between the two cases that indicate to him that the ruling by the 7th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals will be upheld by the Supreme Court.

"BOTH CASES HINGE on the fact that people's rights have been violated because they have been forced to live in inner-city ghettos, and in both cases, the appellate court has found a constitutional violation," Ferrera said.

"I put those two together and see the Supreme Court making the same type of decision and finding in favor of us. I don't see how they could do anything else," he said.

Ryan and Village Atty. Jack Siegel insist that the Lincoln Green case will be decided on the zoning question.

"There is no real relationship between these two cases. Ours has been a zoning case from the very beginning," Siegel said.

"I DON'T SEE this decision prejudicing our case. I'm not discouraged by it in any way. I just don't think this latest decision is as broad as many people would have us believe. I think that if we win our case, it will narrow the purview of that decision," Ryan said.

Conversely, Ferrera is convinced the Arlington Heights Metropolitan Housing Development Corp. case will not be decided on the zoning question.

"I don't think zoning will be an issue with the Supreme Court. I don't think they will allow zoning to preclude the housing we have proposed. They will look at the discrimination and rule on that," Ferrera said.

All summer jobs taken at village hall, parks

A near record number of summer job applicants already have snapped up the available positions offered by the village and the Arlington Heights Park District.

Youngsters hoping to land a part-time job with the village or through its job referral service also will be out of luck this year.

Gregory Ford, village personnel director, said there have been more than 65 applications for the village's 12 summer jobs. However, the jobs, in public works and clerical staffs, have been taken in most cases by those who held them last year.

ANGELO CAPULLI, park district superintendent of maintenance, said the 13 job openings for grounds crews and janitorial duties all have been filled. Again, the jobs were taken by those who worked for the district in the past.

"We're filled up already. We had 13 positions budgeted, but they are all filled now," Capulli said.

"I've got the work for them, but we just don't have the money to pay them," he said.

Capulli said he expected this year's number of applicants to at least equal last year's figure.

"LAST YEAR, THE number of kids looking for work was extremely high. I don't have the exact figure, but I know that it was more than we'd ever had before," Capulli said.

Mertin Taylor, park recreation director, said the 60 recreation jobs have been filled as well.

"Most of them come in at Christmastime or at least during Easter vacation at the latest to get the jobs locked up," Taylor said.

The village job picture is about the same, Ford reported, with employes from last summer already having signed up for this year.

"PRIORITY IS GIVEN to past employes as long as their work record was OK," he said.

The village jobs are with the public works department or involving clerical duties. The pay for the summer help is $3 to $3.25 an hour depending upon experience.

The park district scale is lower, beginning at $2.25 an hour up to $3.25 an hour.

The money crunch eliminated several part-time positions with the village. Ford said in past years, students could find part-time work in study-related fields such as the village's planning or engineering departments.

"THIS YEAR there's no money in the budget for those positions," he said.

A village job-referral service initiated last year to help local youngsters find summer work will not be operational this year because of a lack of response from employers.

Mount Prospect pupil goes to national bee

A Mount Prospect seventh grader will represent the Northwest suburbs at the National Spelling Bee competition in June.

Bill Runkel, 12, a student at Lincoln Junior High School, Mount Prospect, won first place in the Paddock Publications Spelling Bee Finals Saturday. Fifteen seventh and eighth graders from throughout the Northwest suburbs competed in the bee after placing as finalists in regional competition April 24.

Lisa Rovella of Palatine, an eighth grade student at St. Theresa School, took second place honors at the bee. Lisa received a black and white portable Zenith television set. Bill received a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica and a trip to Washington D.C. for the national bee.

THE SPELLING bee Saturday went 14 rounds with all contestants completing three full rounds before missing a word. Contestants misspelled words such as mollify, sagacity, oligarchy, ostracism and feign, eliminating them from further competition.

The finalists included Jim Edstrom, Hoffman Estates, Eisenhower Junior High School; Terry McCoy, Hoffman Estates, St. Hubert School; Lori Reilly, Inverness, Eisenhower Junior High School; Lori Steed, Hoffman Estates, Eisenhower Junior High School; Ann Bjorndahl, Arlington Heights, Miner Junior High School; Katy Libby, Buffalo Grove, London Junior High School.

Also Steve Vavasis, Arlington Heights, South Junior High School; Amy Von Jenef, Arlington Heights, South Junior High School; Laura Young, Buffalo Grove, Twin Groves School; Sue Kropid, Mount Prospect, St. Emily School; Joe Lassa, Des Plaines, St. Mary School; Diane Penuela, Mount Prospect, St. Zachary School; and Nancy Woodruff, Mount Prospect, Lincoln Junior High School.

The last five contestants in the bee included Ann Bjorndahl, who missed the word "trenchant"; Nancy Woodruff, who missed "fervent"; Terry McCoy, who missed "swarthy"; Lisa and Bill. A total of 110 words were spelled during the bee.

THE TWO finalists went four rounds before either missed a word. Lisa lost on the word "farcical" which Bill was able to spell correctly. Bill then spelled the word "flump" correctly to win the bee.

Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Runkel, 508 S. Williams, Mount Prospect. Bill and one of his parents will travel to Washington D.C. in June, where they will tour the White House and other sights in addition to the daily spelling bee competition.

Judges for the Saturday bee were Arlene Woulf, an eighth grade teacher at Miner Junior High School; Emily Ehm, eighth grade teacher, London Junior High School; and Fifi Arapulo, first grade teacher, Mark Twain School, Des Plaines.

Bill Runkel flashes a smile and walks away a winner.

Bee winner Bill Runkel comes from spelling family

Education today

by Dorothy Oliver

Bill Runkel is still a little amazed that he won. So are his parents — Barbara and Paul Runkel — who never really expected their seventh grader to wind up as Northwest suburban spelling bee champ.

Bill was No. 1 Saturday in the Paddock Spelling Bee Finals. There were 15 seventh and eighth graders vying for the title but Bill captured it by spelling "farcical" and "flump."

The spelling bee was "mom's idea," said Bill, who admits he is a good speller but "not very good at English" and certainly not a straight-A student.

Bill thinks maybe he inherited his spelling ability. His mother was a spelling bee champ in Chicago in her youth and "my grandma is a good speller too."

Mrs. Runkel remembers her spelling bee days and will never again misspell the word "holocaust" which brought about her defeat.

Bill and the 14 other finalists were obviously nervous Saturday. Although hours of study were spent by each, standing on the stage it seemed as though they were hearing the words for the very first time.

There were a few tears and a lot of groans as the contestants tackled words they were unsure of and missed. As the pronouncer, saying the words each contestant had to spell, I found the hardest words to say were "I'm sorry that's wrong."

And I'm sure each contestant, like Mrs. Runkel, will never forget how to spell that final word that forced them out of the bee.

MRS. FURLETT found me. I couldn't believe it when I picked up the phone and my fifth-grade teacher was on the line.

Several weeks before I had written a column talking about the problems I was having helping my kids with their homework. I mentioned that one good thing that had happened was that I had finally learned my multiplication tables by helping my youngest with his, and that my fifth-grade teacher, Mrs. Furlett, would be so relieved.

The column was read by Mrs. Furlett's sister-in-law who lives in Elk Grove Village, and she determined that there could only be one Mrs. Furlett teaching fifth grade in the world. She sent her the column and my former teacher went through her files and found me in the class of 1955.

Her phone call was followed by a packet of letters from her students. Some included mutiplication problems in their letters just to see if I could remember and many assured me I'm not the only one with math problems. All of the letters were great but here are a couple I found particularly enjoyable:

"I am Carole Serota, Mrs. Furlett fifth-grade student. We got your article. I also had trouble with my multiplication. But now I know them. Mrs. Furlett got remarried and now her name is Mrs. Clifford. She is well and alive and still teaches fifth grade. Do you know that you were her only student named Dorothy in all the years she has been teaching? Mrs. Clifford still beats us in learning are multiplication facts."

"Mrs. Clifford is still foxy. i have the same problem as you have i can't learn my multiplycasen tables either. frome, Joe Abrams."

"My name is Robert Spagnoli and my fifth-grade teacher is Mrs. Clifford and she was once good old Mrs. Furlett. And do you know that I still have trouble with my math facts. Mrs. Clifford is my favorite fifth grade techer. Well acorce she's my only fifth grade techer. And today I came in 19 minutes late . . . "

Mrs. Furlett Clifford also wrote a letter in which she said she remembered me as a "delightful, cooperative fifth grader." I think I'll end on that note.

Bill Runkel, 12, a student at Lincoln Junior High School, Mount Prospect, won first place in the Paddock Publications Spelling Bee Finals Saturday. Fifteen seventh and eighth graders from throughout the Northwest suburbs competed in the bee after placing as finalists in regional competition April 24.

Lisa Rovella of Palatine, an eighth grade student at St. Theresa School, took second place honors at the bee. Lisa received a black and white portable Zenith television set. Bill received a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica and a trip to Washington D.C. for the national bee.

THE SPELLING bee Saturday went 14 rounds with all contestants completing three full rounds before missing a word. Contestants misspelled words such as mollify, sagacity, oligarchy, ostracism and feign, eliminating them from further competition.

The finalists included Jim Edstrom, Hoffman Estates, Eisenhower Junior High School; Terry McCoy, Hoffman Estates, St. Hubert School; Lori Reilly, Inverness, Eisenhower Junior High School; Lori Steed, Hoffman Estates, Eisenhower Junior High School; Ann Bjorndahl, Arlington Heights, Miner Junior High School; Katy Libby, Buffalo Grove, London Junior High School.

Also Steve Vavasis, Arlington Heights, South Junior High School; Amy Von Jenef, Arlington Heights, South Junior High School; Laura Young, Buffalo Grove, Twin Groves School; Sue Kropid, Mount Prospect, St. Emily School; Joe Lassa, Des Plaines, St. Mary School; Diane Penuela, Mount Prospect, St. Zachary School; and Nancy Woodruff, Mount Prospect, Lincoln Junior High School.

The last five contestants in the bee included Ann Bjorndahl, who missed the word "trenchant"; Nancy Woodruff, who missed "fervent"; Terry McCoy, who missed "swarthy"; Lisa and Bill. A total of 110 words were spelled during the bee.

THE TWO finalists went four rounds before either missed a word. Lisa lost on the word "farcical" which Bill was able to spell correctly. Bill then spelled the word "flump" correctly to win the bee.

Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Runkel, 508 S. Williams, Mount Prospect. Bill and one of his parents will travel to Washington D.C. in June, where they will tour the White House and other sights in addition to the daily spelling bee competition.

Judges for the Saturday bee were Arlene Woulf, an eighth grade teacher at Miner Junior High School; Emily Ehm, eighth grade teacher, London Junior High School; and Fifi Arapulo, first grade teacher, Mark Twain School, Des Plaines.

Bee winner Bill Runkel comes from spelling family

Education today

by Dorothy Oliver

Bill Runkel is still a little amazed that he won. So are his parents — Barbara and Paul Runkel — who never really expected their seventh grader to wind up as Northwest suburban spelling bee champ.

Bill was No. 1 Saturday in the Paddock Spelling Bee Finals. There were 15 seventh and eighth graders vying for the title but Bill captured it by spelling "farcical" and "flump."

The spelling bee was "mom's idea," said Bill, who admits he is a good speller but "not very good at English" and certainly not a straight-A student.

Bill thinks maybe he inherited his spelling ability. His mother was a spelling bee champ in Chicago in her youth and "my grandma is a good speller too."

Mrs. Runkel remembers her spelling bee days and will never again misspell the word "holocaust" which brought about her defeat.

Bill and the 14 other finalists were obviously nervous Saturday. Although hours of study were spent by each, standing on the stage it seemed as though they were hearing the words for the very first time.

There were a few tears and a lot of groans as the contestants tackled words they were unsure of and missed. As the pronouncer, saying the words each contestant had to spell, I found the hardest words to say were "I'm sorry that's wrong."

And I'm sure each contestant, like Mrs. Runkel, will never forget how to spell that final word that forced them out of the bee.

MRS. FURLETT found me. I couldn't believe it when I picked up the phone and my fifth-grade teacher was on the line.

Several weeks before I had written a column talking about the problems I was having helping my kids with their homework. I mentioned that one good thing that had happened was that I had finally learned my multiplication tables by helping my youngest with his, and that my fifth-grade teacher, Mrs. Furlett, would be so relieved.

The column was read by Mrs. Furlett's sister-in-law who lives in Elk Grove Village, and she determined that there could only be one Mrs. Furlett teaching fifth grade in the world. She sent her the column and my former teacher went through her files and found me in the class of 1955.

Her phone call was followed by a packet of letters from her students. Some included mutiplication problems in their letters just to see if I could remember and many assured me I'm not the only one with math problems. All of the letters were great but here are a couple I found particularly enjoyable:

"I am Carole Serota, Mrs. Furlett fifth-grade student. We got your article. I also had trouble with my multiplication. But now I know them. Mrs. Furlett got remarried and now her name is Mrs. Clifford. She is well and alive and still teaches fifth grade. Do you know that you were her only student named Dorothy in all the years she has been teaching? Mrs. Clifford still beats us in learning are multiplication facts."

"Mrs. Clifford is still foxy. i have the same problem as you have i can't learn my multiplycasen tables either. frome, Joe Abrams."

"My name is Robert Spagnoli and my fifth-grade teacher is Mrs. Clifford and she was once good old Mrs. Furlett. And do you know that I still have trouble with my math facts. Mrs. Clifford is my favorite fitth grade techer. Well acorce she's my only fifth grade techer. And today I came in 19 minutes late . . . "

Mrs. Furlett Clifford also wrote a letter in which she said she remembered me as a "delightful, cooperative fifth grader." I think I'll end on that note.

Hinsdale Central gains Arlington invite honors

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Ted Staren, the brother of 1975 Illinois singles champion Ed Staren, proved Saturday at the Arlington Invitational that he may be ready to take his brother's place at the top of the state tennis ladder.

Staren, while leading Hinsdale Central to the team championship Saturday, cruised through the No. 1 singles bracket and met Highland Park's Matt Horwitch in the finals.

As a sophomore last spring, Horwitch had fought the elder Staren in the state singles finals before falling and seemed like a good bet to win it all this year.

But after dominating the first set in Saturday's final 6-2, Horwitch was systematically cut down as Staren romped to the title, taking the final sets 6-2, 6-2.

Staren was just part of an impressive Hinsdale team effort.

Eric Umsted also reached the No. 2 singles finals but lost to New Trier East's Bob Frei, 6-1, 6-4. Frei helped New Trier to a second place team finish.

The No. 1 doubles competition was also won by the Red Devils as Randy Druz and Al Pielet, a pair of veteran performers for Hinsdale, carved up the Homewood-Flossmoor entry in the finals, 7-6, 6-2.

Arlington, which took third behind Hinsdale and New Trier East, was paced by singles player Paul Wei and the No. 2 doubles team of Mike Doering and Bob Pionke.

Wei won his first two matches, setting down Homewood's Kevin Kown 6-2, 6-4 and Todd Black of Danville 6-3, 6-2 before losing a three-setter to Horwitch, 7-6, 2-6, 6-2.

He then recovered in the consolation bracket and tipped Oak Park's Bruce Brescia 6-3, 3-6, (7-3) to take third place.

"Paul played a good day of tennis," said Arlington coach Tom Pitchford. "He was very close to beating Horwitch."

Also in No. 1 singles play, Prospect's Dan Hanson came back from a back injury that sidelined him for tow dual meets last week.

After losing an opening round match to Rod Dowdle of Barrington 6-3, 6-3 Hanson scorched Lake Park's Tom Pauly 6-0, 6-1 then lost to Libertyville's Kregg Yingst, 6-4, 6-3.

At No. 2 doubles Arlington's Doering and Pionke won three straight matches, being forced to three sets in only one, to reach the finals where they lost to a team from New Trier East.

Prospect's team of Mike Wood and Steve Chelberg lost their opening round match, then advanced to the consolation finals before losing to a Deerfield duo, 6-3, 6-3.

Maine West put together nine points to take third in the Titan Invite at Glenbrook South.

The Warriors' best effort was turned in by the doubles team of Mike Hand and Tim Keenley, who reached the finals before falling to Glenbrook North, who won the team title with 13 points.

Palatine and Hersey finished second and third behind Maine East in a quadrangular.

The two MSL entrants split the eight matches they played with each other.

Rolling Meadows, Palatine track squads finish in runnerup spots

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editoir

Second place isn't all that bad.

If you dan't win the meet, you can at least take some satisfaction from good individual performances, such as those turned in by the Rolling Meadows track team in their own Mustang Jamboree Saturday.

For Palatine's trackmen, consolation comes from the knowledge that their 147 points in the Cougar Classic on Saturday was probably the most ever scored by a runnerup.

Defending champ Glenbard South had too much depth for the rest of the eight-team Jamboree field, scoring 73 points to become the first school to take back-to-back title in the four-year history of this meet, consisting entirely of relay events. The Raiders won eight events, including both hurdle shuttles, the pole vault, the high jump, the long jump and the triple jump.

Coach Joe Vitton's Mustangs were close enough to make it very interesting, winning six relay events and finishing with 61½ points. Hinsdale South (37) was third, followed by Elgin (27½), Barrington (21), Niles West (21), Waukegan East (12) and Taft (3).

Rick Sutton, Dave Boursaw, and Fred Kocian led the Mustangs to outstanding times in the relay races. Sutton ran a :21.5 leg and Boursaw contributed a :21.8 to Meadows' first-place effort in the sprint medley. Tom Choice turned in a 2:02 in his 880 leg.

Kocian, meanwhile, clocked a :51.7 on the third leg of the class mile relay, which the Mustangs won in 3:33.5. Freshman John Bathey led off the relay with a :55.6 and senior Ted Tyk anchored in :52.9.

Kocian, who also pole vaulted 11-6, came back for a :52 leg in the mile relay in which Sutton closed fast in :50.6 but failed to catch winning Glenbard South.

It was in the 880-relay that the Mustangs turned in their best time. Sutton, a junior, anchored as Rolling Meadows clocked 1:32.2, just a tenth of a second off the meet record. Seniors Pete Till and Boursaw joined freshman Marty Petlicki in the race.

The Mustangs' weightmen defended their titles from the year before, winning the shot put and the discus rather easily. Bob Huber took individual shot put honors with a toss of 49-7¾.

Mustang high jumper, Jeff Schrock, reached a personal best of 6-3 as Meadows took second in that event behind Glenbard. Jeff Lund, his leg heavily bandaged, cleared 6-0.

At the first Cougar Classic at Conant High School, Naperville Central showed a lot of power in piling up 170½ points. Palatine, with 140, was second ahead of Rockford Auburn (124), Conant (109), Morton East (102) and East Leyden (69).

Palatine's Pirates did alright, capturing 11 first places in the meet, which featured three levels of competition in each event except the relays.

Pirate sophomore Tom Johnson was impressive with a victory in the class C two-mile (10:05.6) and a win in the class A mile, outdueling Naperville's Rick Hodapp to register a 4:35.5.

The Pirates' mile relay team of Tom Bailey, Rich Falbo, Kirk Morris and freshman Dave Kennedy clocked a 3:29.7 for a first place. And pole vaulter Bill Pulak won the class A division with a personal outdoor best of 13-6.

Other Palatine winners were Mark Barnes in the high jump (6-0), Chuck Elliott in the two-mile (10:00.8), Bill Finlay in the 220 (:24.1), Tony Vargas in the mile (4:42.7), Denis Byrne in the long jump (19-6), Morris in the 440 (:51.9), and the two-mile relay team (8:39.7).

Conant got a pair of firsts from Ed MacDonald in the discus (133-0) and Brett Anderson in the pole vault (12-6). Junior half-miler Brian Foss was nipped at the wire in the class A race, but recorded his best time of the year with 2:00.3.

Schaumburg got several excellent efforts from its trackmen in a big meet at Glenbard East Friday night. Sophomore quartermiler Jeff Ways, who had only run once outdoors since injuring his hip in the indoor conference meet, finished fourth in :51.8 and pole vaulter Mark Sterle reached his best ever with 12-6 for fourth.

But the top performances were by Mike Christy, Brad Crawford, and Scott Mielke.

Christy, a versatile junior, took seconds in the long jump (20-11½) and the 220. His :22.7 in the 220 was only the second time he had ever run the event. Christy has also thrown the shot 49-8 this season.

Crawford set a meet mark in the discus with a toss of 148-9, and Mielke took second place with a 6-4 in the high jump. It was the first time Mielke had reached that height out-Mielke had reached that height outdoors this year after qualifying for the state meet as a junior.

Female Manassa Maulers

Remember, not so long ago, when you wanted to prpare your little girl to succeed in life, you gave her tap-dancing lessons? Or piano? The harp? Ballet? You taught her to cook, sew, got her to let her hair grow?

Now, you get her a pair of boxing gloves.

Remember how you encouraged her to wear ribbons in her hair, frocks with hoop skirts? Remember how you didn't want their feet to get too big, their hands too rough, their voices too deep when you had daughters? Bathing was OK but swimming created unsightly muscles. Figure skating was OK because you did it to "Swan Lake." Skiing was OK so long as you didn't go near the snow.

You bought them mirrors. But not to shadow box with. You bought the skip rope. But not for foot work. And you wouldn't buy them a punching bag for anything.

You raised your girl to be a mother, not a heavyweight.

How would you like to have a daughter who's a heavyweight contender? Like to see her referred to as "trial horse?" Would you buy earrings for cauliflower ears? Like to spend a fortune on your girl's orthodontia and then have her teeth knocked out by a butt? Who needs eye-shadow for a black eye? Who needs braces for dentures? Would you put powder on scar tissue? Will liniment replace Chanel No. 5 as a popular scent? Will be the broken-nose look be "in"? And who needs nail polish under hand bandages?

Apparently, the Bill Of Rights includes the right to a detached retina, or a subdural hemmorrhage, or a nose bleed, aphasia or any of traumas of the prize ring. Women don't want men to be having all the fun.

Why give a girl voice lessons if she's going to sound like Maxie Rosenbloom when she grows up, when she'll get a lump in her throat not from soap operas but from straight rights?

What's the matter, don't they have dances, anymore? What ever happened to bridge parties? Cancoeing in the park? Bake-offs? Doesn't anybody make fudge?

Two young women whose ambition it is to look like Jake La Motta or Gorilla Jones tried to beat the bejabbers out of each other in a regularly scheduled, non-spontaneous fight last week in Los Angeles before people who paid to see it. And they're not even after the same man.

Instead of hairdressers working in their corners, they had cut men. And, what did they say at the start, "no hitting above the belt?"

In a country where it's illegal to fight a bull, or to pet dogs, or match chickens, they sold tickets to see a 20-year-old housewife and an 18-year-old schoolgirl try to flatten each other, to coin a phrase. Ms. Patricia Pineda and Ms. Kim Maybee are going to be to women's boxing what Jake Kilrain and John L. Sullivan were to men's — pioneers in manual mayhem. The Marquis of Queensbury would need to sniff snuff.

I'm not sure either one of them is pointing to a fight with Joe Frazier. But, how would you like to say "I want you to meet my wife — Manassa Mauler?" Or "my daughter — 'The Belting Brakeman'?" Of course, it wasn't the first time two women fought over a title before. In fact, Muhammad Ali's wife and girl friend are doing that right now.

Of course, too, if they really want to have a war, have them both show up in the same outfit. That way they can throw away the timekeeper and the bell — and the referee — and the Marquis of Queensbury.

Overtime at Frisco: Cubs take two in extra innings

From Herald Wire Services

Randy Hundley's sacrafice fly drove in Dave Rosello in the top of the 11th and allowed the Chicago Cubs to sweep an extra inning double header at San Francisco Sunday. Both verdicts were by 6-5 counts.

The fifth Giant pitcher, Greg Minton, absorbed the loss after a San Francisco rally in the bottom of the 11th sputtered out with runners on second and third. The Giants had rallied for two in the ninth to send the second game into extra innings.

Earlier in the day, Jose Cardenal's sixth hit of the game, a single, scored Dave Rosello from second with two out in the 14th inning Sunday to give the Chicago Cubs a 6-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants in the first game of a doubleheader.

The run was the fourth driven in by Cardenal who had three other singles, a double and his third home run.

Ken Frailing, making his first appearance of the year since coming off the disabled list, pitched three scoreless innings to gain credit for the victory in his initial decision, while Gary Lavelle, making his 11th appearance, took the loss and is now 1-1.

Lavelle worked five innings and the run the Cubs scored off him in the 14th was the first given by the left-handed reliever in 23 innings this season.

The Giants tied the score in the ninth when Chris Speier scored from third base while Willie Montanez was hitting into a double play.

Frailing was the fourth Cub pitcher used in the game. Oscar Zamora, making his first start since being recalled from the minors last week, was spotted a 5-0 lead through five innings but left after the Giants had cut the lead to two after six frames on Marc Hill's first homer of the year.

In the second game, the lead seesawed throughout with the Cubs emerging on top 4-3 after seven. Champ Somers slapped out his first homer of the season in the eighth to allow the visitor's an insurance run and a good shot at a sweep for the day and a 3-1 edge in the weekend series with the Giants.

But a pair of base hits, a hit batsman and a secrafice fly allowed the hosts new life. After ten innings the contest was still deadlocked at five apiece.

Rolling Meadows girls win invite

Rolling Meadows captured its second girls' track team championship trophy Saturday. The Mustangs of Coach Joy Bundy also demonstrated to the rest of the Mid-Suburban League that they are definite contenders again this season.

Competing at the first Lake Park Invitational track and field meet, the Mustangs rolled up 60 points to easily win the team title. Palatine was second in the 12-team meet with 41 points with Conant third at 32.5.

Rolling Meadows demonstrated its depth with four first-place and five second-place finishes.

The Mustangs took both the 440 and 880 relays. On the former winning team was the foursome of Karen Brown, Bridget Geegan, Patty Adcock and Joyce Keefer (53.5). Brown also started the 880 on its way to victory with Barb Nelson, Connie Gallis and Char Anderson finishing up (1:50.5).

Denise Reitmeyer won the high jump (4-9) and Julie Jacobs took the two-mile run (12:08.7). Jacobs also finished second in the mile.

Other seconds were turned in by Chris Gallis in both the 100 and 220 dashes, Sue Vlamis in the shot put and the 880-yard medley relay team of Brown, Barb Nelson, Connie Gallis and Char Anderson.

"I think they did a pretty good job," said Bundy of her team's showing. She added that she thought her team would be strong the rest of the season with the return of Connie Gallis.

Palatine came away with three firsts. Suzanne Nance won the 880-yard run (2:33.5). Patty Soutar had a hand in the winning of both the 880 medley and the mile relays. Soutar anchored the medley with Sue Ryther, Sandy Williams and Joyce Popp joining her (1:59.6). Soutar began the mile run with Darlene Gordon, Nance and Nancy Kase finishing up (4:20.5).

Helping lift Conant to third place was the showing of Mary Ann Johnson. She won both the shot put (43-9) and the discus (101-1½).

Schaumburg failed to pick up a first in placing ninth.

Rain washes out Sox twinbill

The White Sox again fell a victim to the weather Sunday as rain washed out a twinbill with Detroit.

"Bat Day," which was scheduled for Sunday, has been reset for Sunday, June 20, when the Sox host the New York Yankees in a single game.

The two postponed games with the Tigers have not yet been rescheduled. Out of eight dates on the current home stand, four dates had to be postponed, and only one was made up during the homestand.

The Sox now hit the road for two weeks, and hopefully better weather.

Sophomore quartermiler Jeff Ways, who had only run once outdoors since injuring his hip in the indoor conference meet, finished fourth in :51.8 and pole vaulter Mark Sterle reached his best ever with 12-6 for fourth.

But the top performances were by Mike Christy, Brad Crawford, and Scott Mielke.

Christy, a versatile junior, took seconds in the long jump (20-11½) and the 220. His :22.7 in the 220 was only the second time he had ever run the event. Christy has also thrown the shot 49-8 this season.

Crawford set a meet mark in the discus with a toss of 148-9, and Mielke took second place with a 6-4 in the high jump. It was the first time Mielke had reached that height out- Mielke had reached that height outdoors this year after qualifying for the state meet as a junior.

Female Manassa Maulers

Remember, not so long ago, when you wanted to prpare your little girl to succeed in life, you gave her tap-dancing lessons? Or piano? The harp? Ballet? You taught her to cook, sew, got her to let her hair grow?

Now, you get her a pair of boxing gloves.

Remember how you encouraged her to wear ribbons in her hair, frocks with hoop skirts? Remember how you didn't want their feet to get too big, their hands too rough, their voices too deep when you had daughters? Bathing was OK but swimming created unsightly muscles. Figure skating was OK because you did it to "Swan Lake." Skiing was OK so long as you didn't go near the snow.

You bought them mirrors. But not to shadow box with. You bought the skip rope. But not for foot work. And you wouldn't buy them a punching bag for anything.

You raised your girl to be a mother, not a heavyweight.

How would you like to have a daughter who's a heavyweight contender? Like to see her referred to as "trial horse?" Would you buy earrings for cauliflower ears? Like to spend a fortune on your girl's orthodontia and then have her teeth knocked out by a butt? Who needs eye-shadow for a black eye? Who needs braces for dentures? Would you put powder on scar tissue? Will liniment replace Chanel No. 5 as a popular scent? Will be the broken-nose look be "in"? And who needs nail polish under hand bandages?

Apparently, the Bill Of Rights includes the right to a detached retina, or a subdural hemmorrhage, or a nose bleed, aphasia or any of traumas of the prize ring. Women don't want men to be having all the fun.

Why give a girl voice lessons if she's going to sound like Maxie Rosenbloom when she grows up, when she'll get a lump in her throat not from soap operas but from straight rights?

What's the matter, don't they have dances, anymore? What ever happened to bridge parties? Cancoeing in the park? Bake-offs? Doesn't anybody make fudge?

Two young women whose ambition it is to look like Jake La Motta or Gorilla Jones tried to beat the bejabbers out of each other in a regularly scheduled, non-spontaneous fight last week in Los Angeles before people who paid to see it. And they're not even after the same man.

Instead of hairdressers working in their corners, they had cut men. And, what did they say at the start, "no hitting above the belt?"

In a country where it's illegal to fight a bull, or to pet dogs, or match chickens, they sold tickets to see a 20-year-old housewife and an 18-year-old schoolgirl try to flatten each other, to coin a phrase. Ms. Patricia Pineda and Ms. Kim Maybee are going to be to women's boxing what Jake Kilrain and John L. Sullivan were to men's — pioneers in manual mayhem. The Marquis of Queensbury would need to sniff snuff.

I'm not sure either one of them is pointing to a fight with Joe Frazier. But, how would you like to say "I want you to meet my wife — Manassa Mauler?" Or "my daughter — 'The Belting Brakeman'?" Of course, it wasn't the first time two women fought over a title before. In fact, Muhammad Ali's wife and girl friend are doing that right now.

Of course, too, if they really want to have a war, have them both show up in the same outfit. That way they can throw away the timekeeper and the bell — and the referee — and the Marquis of Queensbury.

Overtime at Frisco: Cubs take two in extra innings

From Herald Wire Services

Randy Hundley's sacrafice fly drove in Dave Rosello in the top of the 11th and allowed the Chicago Cubs to sweep an extra inning double header at San Francisco Sunday. Both verdicts were by 6-5 counts.

The fifth Giant pitcher, Greg Minton, absorbed the loss after a San Francisco rally in the bottom of the 11th sputtered out with runners on second and third. The Giants had rallied for two in the ninth to send the second game into extra innings.

Earlier in the day, Jose Cardenal's sixth hit of the game, a single, scored Dave Rosello from second with two out in the 14th inning Sunday to give the Chicago Cubs a 6-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants in the first game of a doubleheader.

The run was the fourth driven in by Cardenal who had three other singles, a double and his third home run.

Ken Frailing, making his first appearance of the year since coming off the disabled list, pitched three scoreless innings to gain credit for the victory in his initial decision, while Gary Lavelle, making his 11th appearance, took the loss and is now 1-1.

Lavelle worked five innings and the run the Cubs scored off him in the 14th was the first given by the left-handed reliever in 23 innings this season.

The Giants tied the score in the ninth when Chris Speier scored from third base while Willie Montanez was hitting into a double play.

Frailing was the fourth Cub pitcher used in the game. Oscar Zamora, making his first start since being recalled from the minors last week, was spotted a 5-0 lead through five innings but left after the Giants had cut the lead to two after six frames on Marc Hill's first homer of the year.

In the second game, the lead seesawed throughout with the Cubs emerging on top 4-3 after seven. Champ Somers slapped out his first homer of the season in the eighth to allow the visitor's an insurance run and a good shot at a sweep for the day and a 3-1 edge in the weekend series with the Giants.

But a pair of base hits, a hit batsman and a secrafice fly allowed the hosts new life. After ten innings the contest was still deadlocked at five apiece.

Rain washes out Sox twinbill

The White Sox again fell a victim to the weather Sunday as rain washed out a twinbill with Detroit.

"Bat Day," which was scheduled for Sunday, has been reset for Sunday, June 20, when the Sox host the New York Yankees in a single game.

The two postponed games with the Tigers have not yet been rescheduled. Out of eight dates on the current home stand, four dates had to be postponed, and only one was made up during the homestand.

The Sox now hit the road for two weeks, and hopefully better weather.

TOLLER CRANSTON of Canada executes a maneuver displaying his unique artistic skating style, which has generated controversy but enabled him to capture the Canadian Senior Men's figure skating championship five years in a row, finish third in the 1976 Olympics and fourth in World Championships. Cranston will display his talents in the "Stars on Ice Revue" at the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena May 14-16.

Rolling Meadows girls win invite

Rolling Meadows captured its second girls' track team championship trophy Saturday. The Mustangs of Coach Joy Bundy also demonstrated to the rest of the Mid-Suburban League that they are definite contenders again this season.

Competing at the first Lake Park Invitational track and field meet, the Mustangs rolled up 60 points to easily win the team title. Palatine was second in the 12-team meet with 41 points with Conant third at 32.5.

Rolling Meadows demonstrated its depth with four first-place and five second-place finishes.

The Mustangs took both the 440 and 880 relays. On the former winning team was the foursome of Karen Brown, Bridget Geegan, Patty Adcock and Joyce Keefer (53.5). Brown also started the 880 on its way to victory with Barb Nelson, Connie Gallis and Char Anderson finishing up (1:50.5).

Denise Reitmeyer won the high jump (4-9) and Julie Jacobs took the two-mile run (12:08.7). Jacobs also finished second in the mile.

Other seconds were turned in by Chris Gallis in both the 100 and 220 dashes, Sue Vlamis in the shot put and the 880-yard medley relay team of Brown, Barb Nelson, Connie Gallis and Char Anderson.

"I think they did a pretty good job," said Bundy of her team's showing. She added that she thought her team would be strong the rest of the season with the return of Connie Gallis.

Palatine came away with three firsts. Suzanne Nance won the 880-yard run (2:33.5). Patty Soutar had a hand in the winning of both the 880 medley and the mile relays. Soutar anchored the medley with Sue Ryther, Sandy Williams and Joyce Popp joining her (1:59.6). Soutar began the mile run with Darlene Gordon, Nance and Nancy Kase finishing up (4:20.5).

Helping lift Conant to third place was the showing of Mary Ann Johnson. She won both the shot put (43-9) and the discus (101-1½).

Schaumburg failed to pick up a first in placing ninth.

Celtics gain semis; Warriors bury Suns

Boston's Charlie Scott tallied nine straight points midway through the final quarter as the Celtics overcame the Buffalo Braves 104-100 Sunday to vault into the Eastern Conference finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Meanwhile in Oakland the Golden State Warriors ran the Phoenix Suns into the ground as Rick Barry scored 38 points to give the defending National Basketball Association champions a 128-103 victory and a 1-0 lead in the Western Conference finals.

Scott, who went to the same school, North Carolina, as the league's top scorer, Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, poured in 15 of his game-high 31 points in the last quarter to send the Celtics into the best-of-seven conference title series, beginning Tuesday night in Boston, against the Central Division champion Cleveland Cavaliers.

Buffalo three times enjoyed nine-point leads in the third quarter, but JoJo White's 11 points helped Boston cut the deficit to one, 78-77, after three quarters. Baskets by White and Scott put the Celtics on top for good.

Barry, who had averaged less than 20 points in the Warriors' semifinal win over Detroit, also had seven steals, seven rebounds and three assists against Phoenix. All-Star guard Phil Smith chipped in with 17.

The Suns' leading scorer was Curtis Perry with 22, but the Warriors managed to keep Phoenix out of its offensive pattern most of the game and broke it open with a scoring burst by Barry early in the second quarter and then with another rapid-fire assault to start the second half.

Elder captures Houston Open

Likeable Lee Elder, the first black man to play at the Masters, won a second ticket to the prestigious southern tournament by storming from the pack Sunday to make up six strokes on the faltering leaders and win the $200,000 Houston Open with a 10-under par 278.

A victory in a PGA tournament is one of the few ways to automatically gain entrance to the invitation-only Masters. Elder made it two years ago, but was shaken by the pressure and failed to make the cut.

Elder did not fold during Sunday's 36 holes, forced on the players by Thursday's rainout. Elder charged around the sun-splashed Woodlands Country Club course Sunday with rounds of 67 and 69.

Big tour rookie George Burns, who finished his two rounds more than one hour after Elder was in the clubhouse, held the lead most of the afternoon before losing his putting stroke and bogeying four of the final seven holes. He finished in third place tied with Wally Armstrong at eight under.

Forrest Fezler fired a final round 67 to overtake his playing partner, Burns, and win the $22,300 second prize at nine under.

Preakness next for Bold Forbes

Trainer Laz Barrera, who enjoyed possibly the greatest single day of success in racing history, called Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes the fastest horse in America Sunday and said the Puerto Rican flash's next target would be the second jewel of the Triple Crown, the Preakness.

After winning the Kentucky Derby with E. Rodriguez Tizol's 3-year-old colt, plus two other major stakes Saturday, Barrera said, "Bold Forbes is faster than any horse in America."

In addition to Bold Forbes' stirring triumph over Honest Pleasure in the Kentucky Derby, Barrera had Life's Hope win the Illinois Derby at Sportsman's Park and Due Diligence capture the Carter Handicap at Aqueduct for roughly a quarter of a million dollars in winners' purses.

The trainer said speed alone did not win the Derby for Bold Forbes, who was running on butazolidine because of a cut on his heel.

"That (speed) is not the key when you're going a mile and a quarter or a mile and a half," he said.

Barrera had supreme confidence in Bold Forbes' stamina in the 1¼-mile Kentucky Derby and said, "I know when my horse got to the lead the party was over."

The party may have just begun, though, as Bert Firestone's Honest Pleasure will get another crack at catching Bold Forbes in the 1-3/16th-mile Preakness at Pimlico in two weeks.

Although trainer LeRoy Jolley said he was too busy to talk to the press Sunday morning, Firestone said, "His (Barrera's) horse will never beat us again."

Flyers dump Boston, lead semis 2-1

Mel Bridgman, Reggie Leach and Tom Bladon scored third period goals Sunday night to lift the defending champion Philadelphia Flyers to a 5-2 victory over the Boston Bruins and a 2-1 lead in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The teams play the fourth game of the series Tuesday night at the Boston Garden. Ross Lonsberry and Bill Barber scored the other Flyers goals while Jean Ratelle and Wayne Cashman tallied for Boston.

Bridgman got the game-winner 2:11 into the final period, snapping a 2-2 tie. The rookie center skated in alone down the left side and collected a rebound of a shot from the point by defenseman Larry Goodenough. Bridgman, who also set up Bladon's final goal, flipped a 10-footer into the open side of the net.

Leach, scoring a goal in his seventh straight game, gave the Flyers a 4-2 lead at 7:02 of the period, deflecting a shot from the point by Andre Dupont. Leach is the leading playoff goal-getter with 9 markers.

200 years at the same location.
Maybe folks were a little skeptical about taking stock in America 200 years ago.
We were young. At war. With no experience.
And who knew if we'd ever pay back the money?
Well, 200 years have passed. And the U.S. government has always paid in full. To the penny.
Now that's not a bad record.
In fact, you might say we're now a pretty well-established outfit to do business with.
So join the Payroll Savings Plan and save with today's Bicentennial issue of Series E Savings Bonds. It's easy. It's automatic.
And it's safe. After 200 years, you know we're here to stay.
Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years 10 months. In the first years, lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Boston's Charlie Scott tallied nine straight points midway through the final quarter as the Celtics overcame the Buffalo Braves 104-100 Sunday to vault into the Eastern Conference finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Meanwhile in Oakland the Golden State Warriors ran the Phoenix Suns into the ground as Rick Barry scored 38 points to give the defending National Basketball Association champions a 128-103 victory and a 1-0 lead in the Western Conference finals.

Scott, who went to the same school, North Carolina, as the league's top scorer, Buffalo's Bob McAdoo, poured in 15 of his game-high 31 points in the last quarter to send the Celtics into the best-of-seven conference title series, beginning Tuesday night in Boston, against the Central Division champion Cleveland Cavaliers.

Buffalo three times enjoyed nine-point leads in the third quarter, but JoJo White's 11 points helped Boston cut the deficit to one, 78-77, after three quarters. Baskets by White and Scott put the Celtics on top for good.

Barry, who had averaged less than 20 points in the Warriors' semifinal win over Detroit, also had seven steals, seven rebounds and three assists against Phoenix. All-Star guard Phil Smith chipped in with 17.

The Suns' leading scorer was Curtis Perry with 22, but the Warriors managed to keep Phoenix out of its offensive pattern most of the game and broke it open with a scoring burst by Barry early in the second quarter and then with another rapid-fire assault to start the second half.

Elder captures Houston Open

Likeable Lee Elder, the first black man to play at the Masters, won a second ticket to the prestigious southern tournament by storming from the pack Sunday to make up six strokes on the faltering leaders and win the $200,000 Houston Open with a 10-under par 278.

A victory in a PGA tournament is one of the few ways to automatically gain entrance to the invitation-only Masters. Elder made it two years ago, but was shaken by the pressure and failed to make the cut.

Elder did not fold during Sunday's 36 holes, forced on the players by Thursday's rainout. Elder charged around the sun-splashed Woodlands Country Club course Sunday with rounds of 67 and 69.

Big tour rookie George Burns, who finished his two rounds more than one hour after Elder was in the clubhouse, held the lead most of the afternoon before losing his putting stroke and bogeying four of the final seven holes. He finished in third place tied with Wally Armstrong at eight under.

Forrest Fezler fired a final round 67 to overtake his playing partner, Burns, and win the $22,800 second prize at nine under.

Preakness next for Bold Forbes

Trainer Laz Barrera, who enjoyed possibly the greatest single day of success in racing history, called Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes the fastest horse in America Sunday and said the Puerto Rican flash's next target would be the second jewel of the Triple Crown, the Preakness.

After winning the Kentucky Derby with E. Rodriguez Tizol's 3-year-old colt, plus two other major stakes Saturday, Barrera said, "Bold Forbes is faster than any horse in America."

In addition to Bold Forbes' stirring triumph over Honest Pleasure in the Kentucky Derby, Barrera had Life's Hope win the Illinois Derby at Sportsman's Park and Due Diligence capture the Carter Handicap at Aqueduct for roughly a quarter of a million dollars in winners' purses.

The trainer said speed alone did not win the Derby for Bold Forbes, who was running on butazolidine because of a cut on his heel.

"That (speed) is not the key when you're going a mile and a quarter or a mile and a half," he said.

Barrera had supreme confidence in Bold Forbes' stamina in the 1¼-mile Kentucky Derby and said, "I know when my horse got to the lead the party was over."

The party may have just begun, though, as Bert Firestone's Honest Pleasure will get another crack at catching Bold Forbes in the 1-3/16th-mile Preakness at Pimlico in two weeks.

Although trainer LeRoy Jolley said he was too busy to talk to the press Sunday morning, Firestone said, "His (Barrera's) horse will never beat us again."

Flyers dump Boston, lead semis 2-1

Mel Bridgman, Reggie Leach and Tom Bladon scored third period goals Sunday night to lift the defending champion Philadelphia Flyers to a 5-2 victory over the Boston Bruins and a 2-1 lead in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The teams play the fourth game of the series Tuesday night at the Boston Garden. Ross Lonsberry and Bill Barber scored the other Flyers goals while Jean Ratelle and Wayne Cashman tallied for Boston.

Bridgman got the game-winner 2:11 into the final period, snapping a 2-2 tie. The rookie center skated in alone down the left side and collected a rebound of a shot from the point by defenseman Larry Goodenough. Bridgman, who also set up Bladon's final goal, flipped a 10-footer into the open side of the net.

Leach, scoring a goal in his seventh straight game, gave the Flyers a 4-2 lead at 7:02 of the period, deflecting a shot from the point by Andre Dupont. Leach is the leading playoff goal-getter with 9 markers.

200 years at the same location.
Maybe folks were a little skeptical about taking stock in America 200 years ago.
We were young. At war. With no experience.
And who knew if we'd ever pay back the money?
Well, 200 years have passed. And the U.S. government has always paid in full. To the penny.
Now that's not a bad record.
In fact, you might say we're now a pretty well-established outfit to do business with.
So join the Payroll Savings Plan and save with today's Bicentennial issue of Series E Savings Bonds. It's easy. It's automatic.
And it's safe. After 200 years, you know we're here to stay.
Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
200 years at the same location.

Palatine, Meadows triumph in Mid-Suburban action

Harper splits twinbill

The Harper Hawks split a conference doubleheader with DuPage Saturday, dropping a 12-11 decision in the opener, then recovering to take the second game 7-5.

The split left Harper's N4C record at 8-5 while their overall mark stands at 18-7.

DuPage had just a little too much power for the Hawks in the opener as they stuck pitcher Tom Good with the loss.

Howie Brauer continued to carry the big stick for Harper, driving in three runs with a double and single. Dave Patterson was also 2-for-3 for one RBI and Dar Townsend drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Townsend was on the mound for the Hawks in the second game, going the distance to pick up the win.

Harper had two big innings to put their runs across, scoring three in the third and four in the sixth.

Dave Mnichowicz, Greg Meyer and Gary Oslance all had doubles in the third.

Meyer pushed in a run in the sixth when he walked with the bases loaded. Tom Good singled to drive in two more and Patterson followed that with another single to produce the final run.

...So does St. Viator

The St. Viator Lions split a conference doubleheader at St. Joseph over the weekend, taking the first game 6-5, then dropping the nightcap, 10-1.

The Lions, now 6-2 in the East Suburban Catholic Conference, held off a late St. Joseph rally to take the first contest. Leading 6-2 going into the bottom of the seventh, the Lions fought off a three-run St. Joseph charge and won 6-5, with Mark Bonnuchi getting the win.

Bonnuchi struck out seven while walking g only one. Nick Baffa led the offense with a triple that drove in two runs in the fifth.

In the second game, St. Joseph scored in each of the first four innings to roll up an 8-1 lead and Viator never threatened.

Jim Simmerman made the start on the mound for Viator, yielding to reliever Bob Deering in the third. The Lions managed just three hits in the contest.

Nick Baffa gave the Lions their only score when he singled in Kevin Mulroy in the fourth inning.

Viator's season mark now stands at 14-8 after the Saturday twin bill.

On Friday, the Lions travelled to Barrington where they were shelled, 14-5.

The Mid-Suburban League played a limited baseball schedule Saturday with Palatine and Rolling Meadows posting victories.

Palatine stopped cross-town rival Fremd, 6-4, in a North Division game. In a South Division slugfest, Rolling Meadows pounded Conant, 18-9.

PIRATES TOP VIKINGS

Mistakes by the Fremd Vikings and some fine relief work bs Jim Smearman helped the Palatine Pirates to their third MSL win against four losses. Fremd also is 3-4.

After a balk by Palatine starting and winning pitcher Mark Menke gave Fremd a first-inning 1-0 edge, the Pirates took the lead for good in the third. Paul Henkels singled in the tying run and a bases loaded walk to Dan McSweeney — the first of three such "gifts" by Fremd pitching — made it 2-1.

Mike Constantino walked in the fourth to force in the third run. In the fifth, Palatine scored three more. Dave Mottashed drew a base on balls with the bases full. Following a fielder's choice and an error, both Bruce Peterson and Doug Buenzow scored.

Fremd tried to come back in the sixth when Steve Peters slammed a Menke offering over the left field fence, driving in Bill Friskics and Kerry Field.

Smearman pitched the final 1-1/3 innings to preserve the win. Fremd used four pitchers with Field being the starting and losing hurler.

Menke and Henkels each had two singles. Field and Peters led Fremd with two hits each, including a double by Field.

Roels, Gabbert pace Hawk win

Harper's Bob Roels and Doug Gabbert led the Hawk track team to a victory over Wright, Illinois Valley, and Triton.

Roels won the shot put (41-2½) and the discus, surpassing his best previous toss in the latter event with a 143-4.

Gabbert, Harper's hope in the decathlon, scored in five events, including the javelin (144-9), the high jump (5-10) and both hurdles races.

Harper's Jim Lemke also showed his versatility, winning the intermediate hurdles (:59.2), taking second in the highs, and finishing fourth in the 440. Mark Kaufman took first in the three-mile run for Harper.

Teammate Rick Reithal won the 880 and Hawk pole vaulters Bob Maslin, Grant McNerney and Randy Gray swept the first three places at 13-6.

MEADOWS SHELLACKS CONANT

The Rolling Meadows Mustangs trotted out the heavy bats Saturday and buried Conant 18-9.

Meadows combined 15 hits with seven Conant errors to win their fifth Mid-Suburban League game against just three losses.

Conant stands 1-6 in the league.

Gary Adams started on the mound for Rolling Meadows and was treated to an eight run third inning as he posted the win.

Conant's Rob Totten, who started on the hill for the Cougars, was driven out in that inning and was tagged with the loss.

Bill Bilsley had an excellent day at the plate to lead the Meadows attack.

Bilsley collected three hits in five at bats, including two home runs and five RBIs.

Paul Marsillo was also 3-for-5, driving in three runs with a pair of triples.

Dennis Drolet was perfect in three trips to the plate, scoring three runs and stealing a trio of bases.

Third baseman Noe Nunez had a double, an RBI and two hits in two at bats.

Scott Schaffer led Conant's hitters, going 2-for-2 including a double and driving in three runs.

Palatine, Meadows triumph in Mid-Suburban action

Harper splits twinbill

The Harper Hawks split a conference doubleheader with DuPage Saturday, dropping a 12-11 decision in the opener, then recovering to take the second game 7-5.

The split left Harper's N4C record at 8-5 while their overall mark stands at 18-7.

DuPage had just a little too much power for the Hawks in the opener as they stuck pitcher Tom Good with the loss.

Howie Brauer continued to carry the big stick for Harper, driving in three runs with a double and single. Dave Patterson was also 2-for-3 for one RBI and Dar Townsend drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Townsend was on the mound for the Hawks in the second game, going the distance to pick up the win.

Harper had two big innings to put their runs across, scoring three in the third and four in the sixth.

Dave Mnichowicz, Greg Meyer and Gary Oslance all had doubles in the third.

Meyer pushed in a run in the sixth when he walked with the bases loaded. Tom Good singled to drive in two more and Patterson followed that with another single to produce the final run.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Harper	..200	002	43—11-13-1
DuPage	.102	212	04—12-14-1

DuPage	000	023	0— 5- 8-4

...So does St. Viator

The St. Viator Lions split a conference doubleheader at St. Joseph over the weekend, taking the first game 6-5, then dropping the nightcap, 10-1.

The Lions, now 6-2 in the East Suburban Catholic Conference, held off a late St. Joseph rally to take the first contest. Leading 6-2 going into the bottom of the seventh, the Lions fought off a three-run St. Joseph charge and won 6-5, with Mark Bonnuchi getting the win.

Bonnuchi struck out seven while walking g only one. Nick Baffa led the offense with a triple that drove in two runs in the fifth.

In the second game, St. Joseph scored in each of the first four innings to roll up an 8-1 lead and Viator never threatened.

Jim Simmerman made the start on the mound for Viator, yielding to reliever Bob Deering in the third. The Lions managed just three hits in the contest.

Nick Baffa gave the Lions their only score when he singled in Kevin Mulroy in the fourth inning.

Viator's season mark now stands at 14-8 after the Saturday twin bill.

On Friday, the Lions travelled to Barrington where they were shelled, 14-5.

SCORE BY INNINGS

The Mid-Suburban League played a limited baseball schedule Saturday with Palatine and Rolling Meadows posting victories.

Palatine stopped cross-town rival Fremd, 6-4, in a North Division game. In a South Division slugfest, Rolling Meadows pounded Conant, 18-9.

PIRATES TOP VIKINGS

Mistakes by the Fremd Vikings and some fine relief work bs Jim Smearman helped the Palatine Pirates to their third MSL win against four losses. Fremd also is 3-4.

After a balk by Palatine starting and winning pitcher Mark Menke gave Fremd a first-inning 1-0 edge, the Pirates took the lead for good in the third. Paul Henkels singled in the tying run and a bases loaded walk to Dan McSweeney — the first of three such "gifts" by Fremd pitching — made it 2-1.

Mike Constantino walked in the fourth to force in the third run. In the fifth, Palatine scored three more. Dave Mottashed drew a base on balls with the bases full. Following a fielder's choice and an error, both Bruce Peterson and Doug Buenzow scored.

Fremd tried to come back in the sixth when Steve Peters slammed a Menke offering over the left field fence, driving in Bill Friskics and Kerry Field.

Smearman pitched the final 1-1/3 innings to preserve the win. Fremd used four pitchers with Field being the starting and losing hurler.

Menke and Henkels each had two singles. Field and Peters led Fremd with two hits each, including a double by Field.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Fremd	100	003	0—4-5-1
Palatine	002	130	x—6-6-1

MEADOWS SHELLACKS CONANT

The Rolling Meadows Mustangs trotted out the heavy bats Saturday and buried Conant 18-9.

Meadows combined 15 hits with seven Conant errors to win their fifth Mid-Suburban League game against just three losses.

Conant stands 1-6 in the league.

Gary Adams started on the mound for Rolling Meadows and was treated to an eight run third inning as he posted the win.

Conant's Rob Totten, who started on the hill for the Cougars, was driven out in that inning and was tagged with the loss.

Bill Bilsley had an excellent day at the plate to lead the Meadows attack.

Bilsley collected three hits in five at bats, including two home runs and five RBIs.

Paul Marsillo was also 3-for-5, driving in three runs with a pair of triples.

Dennis Drolet was perfect in three trips to the plate, scoring three runs and stealing a trio of bases.

Third baseman Noe Nunez had a double, an RBI and two hits in two at bats.

Scott Schaffer led Conant's hitters, going 2-for-2 including a double and driving in three runs.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Conant	000	014	4— 9- 7-7
Rolling Meadows	.018	432	x—18-15-0

Roels, Gabbert pace Hawk win

Harper's Bob Roels and Doug Gabbert led the Hawk track team to a victory over Wright, Illinois Valley, and Triton.

Roels won the shot put (41-2½) and the discus, surpassing his best previous toss in the latter event with a 143-4.

Gabbert, Harper's hope in the decathlon, scored in five events, including the javelin (144-9), the high jump (5-10) and both hurdles races.

Harper's Jim Lemke also showed his versatility, winning the intermediate hurdles (:59.2), taking second in the highs, and finishing fourth in the 440. Mark Kaufman took first in the three-mile run for Harper.

Teammate Rick Reithal won the 880 and Hawk pole vaulters Bob Maslin, Grant McNerney and Randy Gray swept the first three places at 13-6.

Ask Andy

One-cell animals help termites

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Renee Newell, 11, of Sarasota, Fla., for her question:
HOW DO TERMITES DIGEST WOOD?

We share our planet with 703,500 insect species. Some are beneficial to mankind, but some are downright destructive. Termites are generally thought of as a menace, and in populated areas they probably are. However, in their place in nature they are really quite useful. They clear the forest floor of dead and fallen wood, help create topsoil, and in some areas they help aerate the soil.

Termites are often called white ants. Even though they look somewhat like ants and live in large groups, as ants do, they form a separate insect order of their own — the Isoptera. They are, in fact, much more closely related to the cockroaches than to the ants.

Termites come in a variety of sizes and shapes, but basically there are three castes or classes, each with its own job to do. The reproductive caste consists of kings and queens. Each colony is founded by this pair. They are not treated very royally, however, for after mating the king is ignored and the queen becomes nothing more than an enormous egg-laying machine.

The worker caste is made up of small, blind, softbodied, wingless creatures who do all the work in the colony. Their main jobs consist of finding food and water, building tunnels, enlarging the nest and taking care of other termites. The worker caste is the most populous caste in the colony and often consists of immature termites called nymphs.

The soldier caste lives only to defend the colony against intrusion by raiders, generally ants. Many have enormous heads and large powerful pincer jaws, while others have snouts that are used to spray sticky fluids at unwelcome guests. The soldiers are unable to care for themselves, and the job of feeding and grooming them falls on the luckless worker tribe.

For the most part, the basic menu item for termites is wood. Wood contains a substance called cellulose that cannot be digested by most animals. In fact, even termites cannot digest it by themselves. Living in the termite's intestine are certain types of microscopic single-celled animals, called protozoa, that are able to digest this tough plant product.

The termite and the protozoans work together in a way that benefits both of them. The tiny one-celled organisms break down the wood into substances the termites can utilize. In turn, they are assured a constant supply of food. Without these tiny servants, the termite would soon die of starvation.

There are approximately 2,100 species of termites living in the world. Each species has its own unique characteristics. Some termites have a single king and queen in the colony, while other colonies may have more than one pair of reigning royalty.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Donald Lunsford, 14, of Mooresville, N.C., for his question:
HOW DID THE INDIANS MAKE ARROWHEADS?

The American Indians made their stone arrowheads much the same way as prehistoric man made his thousands of years ago. Using such brittle, glass-like stones as jasper, quartz, slate and flint, the Indian would first split off small pieces from a large stone. After selecting a chip of suitable size, he would grasp it tightly between the palm and fingertips of one hand and press the upper side of the stone near one edge with some hard implement. For this he could use an antler, a bone or an ivory tool of some kind.

This process, repeated over and over again, removed small chips from the arrowhead and gave it the particular shape desired. The type of stone used depended on its availability, and the size and shape of the arrowhead varied according to its intended use. Large animals, for example, were felled with long, tapering arrowheads. Unless they were broken or chipped out of shape, arrowheads were reused by the Indians, who spent quite a bit of time making them.

Correct club suit play

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Jim: "How about some articles on single-suit plays?"

Oswald: "Jim is referring to the best way to play one partcular suit and the subject is well worth a series of articles."

Jim: "South finds himself in a very normal three-notrump contract and wants to get as many extra tricks as he can out of the club suit."

Oswald: "The correct play here is to lead toward dummy and stick in the ten spot. This play will cost him a trick if East holds a singleton club or jack and two small. It will gain a trick for him if West holds a small singleton club or four small clubs."

Jim: "Expressing things in percentages, he will score five club tricks 42 per cent of the time and all important four club tricks 96 per cent of the time. If he leads to the king and back to the ace he scores five tricks just 36 per cent of the time and four tricks just 86 per cent of the time."

Oswald: "A word of caution. If South held the ten of clubs instead of dummy his correct play would be to play the top clubs."

Correct club suit play

Jim: "How about some articles on single-suit plays?"

Oswald: "Jim is referring to the best way to play one partcular suit and the subject is well worth a series of articles."

Jim: "South finds himself in a very normal three-notrump contract and wants to get as many extra tricks as he can out of the club suit."

Oswald: "The correct play here is to lead toward dummy and stick in the ten spot. This play will cost him a trick if East holds a singleton club or jack and two small. It will gain a trick for him if West holds a small singleton club or four small clubs."

Jim: "Expressing things in percentages, he will score five club tricks 42 per cent of the time and all important four club tricks 96 per cent of the time. If he leads to the king and back to the ace he scores five tricks just 36 per cent of the time and four tricks just 86 per cent of the time."

Oswald: "A word of caution. If South held the ten of clubs instead of dummy his correct play would be to play the top clubs."

The Lighter side

It's a toss-up as to what is sexier—the foot or the elbow

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former podiatrist, Dr. William Rossi, has written a book called "The Sex Life of the Foot and Shoe."

It develops the theme that "the foot is the mother of human sexuality."

"Without the feet," Rossi says, "the human figure as we know it would not exist." Which is certainly something to think about.

For one thing, we might all be walking around on our hands. Which definitely would be a setback for the libido. And wouldn't do much for basketball either.

The thesis that Rossi sets forth, while interesting enough, appears to conflict with the findings of Dr. Bargood Fie, author of the book "Where Would Sex Be Without Elbows?"

Fie says his studies indicate that elbow is the father of human sexuality. Or if not the father, at least a second cousin.

After reading a review of Rossi's book, I asked Fie about Rossi's assertion that the feet have been responsible for many love affairs through the ages.

Fie replied that for every affair that might be attributed to the feet, the elbow could get credit for 10.

"Nowadays," he observed, "about 90 per cent of the affairs start in bars or at cocktail parties. Alcohol breaks down inhibitions and otherwise tends to foster hanky panky.

"Now consider the important part that the elbow plays in the drinking process. Without elbow-bending, sex would hardly exist at all."

I quoted a passage from Rossi's book: "Females of the aristocracy in old Russia used to hire professional foot ticklers."

"How many people do you know who are turned on by elbow tickling?" I challenged.

Fie insisted that passage was misleading. "Members of the Russian aristocracy were apt to fall asleep while making love," he explained. "The foot tickling was needed to keep them awake."

I also asked Fie about Rossi's notation that the Greek poet Ovid "wrote a poem about playing footsies."

"I never heard of anyone writing a poem about playing elbowsies," I'ly said.

"Rubbing elbows is only a minor part of the role that elbows play in sexual stimulation," Fie retorted. "As is generally acknowledged by leading sexologists, the most sensuous form of bodily contact is the nudge.

"Nudging a member of the opposite sex with one's elbow is a universally recognized signal. It speaks volumes and is far more erotic than the entwining of toes. The elbow has a vocabulary all of its own.

"My research shows that it's usual-about the third drink before a couple gets to the footsies stage. By that time, they might have nudged each other a dozen times.

"Where human sexuality is concerned, the feet merely pick up where the elbow leaves off."

The way we see it

Need skillful budgeting...

Northwest suburban officials have been spending their evenings trying to figure out how best to allocate the taxpayers' money for local services. In most cases, these lengthy and often detailed sessions are well run. But not all of them are.

In Palatine, municipal budgetary discussions by some trustees are becoming more an exercise in bombastic rhetoric rather than a serious attempt to do the public bidding.

We are particularly displeased with Trustee Bryan Coughlin — who we have always considered one of the most able public officials in Palatine, particularly in the area of finance. Coughlin has said that too much money is being spent in Palatine and that $1 million should be carved from the $7.9 million budget. Maybe Coughlin is correct, but we believe his argument is rhetorical unless he somehow more specifically outlines his position.

We agree that runaway governmental spending must be curbed, but Coughlin could best serve his constituents by being more specific in his budgetary criticisms.

In Hoffman Estates, there is a different problem. Hoffman Estates officials conduct meeting after meeting to put together a budget but do not allow members of the press or public to have copies of the documents they are analyzing. It seems a backwards way of handling such significant public business.

In our local communities there is no more important time for constituents to determine whether their elected representatives are functioning in their best interests.

Public spending practices need public scrutiny — even preliminary discussion. Hoffman Estates officials should realize that such a voluminous amount of information likely cannot and will not be properly analyzed without complete information on how the decisions were made.

In Mount Prospect — where a mayoral veto of the budget has been overridden by trustees — the people probably are finding out the most about how their money will be spent and why. Mayor Teichert's position is that the budget does not adequately fund the library, while trustees say the village cannot afford more library funds.

Because of that public brouhaha and the continuing debate, Mount Prospect residents are being kept abreast of that village's most current financial situation.

Sound business approach

We agree with Trustee Bryan Coughlin of Palatine that it shouldn't take seven public employes and three trucks to tackle the project of planting a 2½-inch tree. In fact, there isn't a public official around who would publicly agree with such payrolling.

Coughlin said he received that example of governmental waste from a resident of Palatine. He restated it to fellow trustees at a board meeting the other day to emphasize the "inefficiencies" in the $7.9 million Palatine budget. Coughlin wanted the budget slashed.

Then the real philosophical debate began when Village Pres. Wendell Jones said that more budget cuts meant "cutting people, including policemen who protect our children."

Coughlin countered, "There is nothing absolutely wrong in cutting back personnel . . . business does it all the time." "Government is not business," Jones replied.

It appears that philosophy took over in Palatine this year during budget talks, and good common sense was lost somewhere in the myriad of discussions.

Obviously the same sound business decisions that keep stockholders happy should be applied to the operation of local taxing bodies. Waste should be cut to the bone, and corporate and municipal officials alike must strive for maximum return on investment. There are endless valid comparisons which could show that successful corporations and successful governments use the same principles.

The last thing any resident of Palatine could condone is a paternal village government unwilling to cut costs because of fear of cutting personnel. We suspect Wendell Jones, despite what he said publicly last week, would agree.

Worthy of note

Permit me to publicly express my gratitude to the many persons who came to my aid during the night of April 7. Policemen, firemen, and paramedic units descended upon our home quickly after our call for help. The only weak link in the chain was the telephone operator, who after being asked to contact an ambulance, replied that she wouldn't know who to call. Incredible! However, to all the policemen, firemen, and paramedics who responded to our 4 a.m. call (and especially the paramedic who rode at my side after just being in the hospital himself), thank you for your very professional and efficient help. It is a great feeling to know that you are there night and day to help in emergencies.

This letter is to praise a young man who came to our rescue Saturday afternoon, April 24th. My daughter, son and I were on our way to Woodfield Hockey Center, where my young son was to play in a game, when at Golf and Wilke roads our car stalled.

After several attempts to start the car myself, I realized it just wasn't going to run. We decided to stand along side the road in hopes someone would stop to assist us. This didn't work either. In the meantime, my son was in tears for fear of missing his beloved hockey game. We removed his gear from the car and started walking back to the nearest service station, when I noticed a car weaving through the traffic to get to us. It was this young man and two companions asking if they could help. Immediately, he found the problem with the car, fixed it and we were on our way. Although we thanked him, in our haste to get to the game, we did not get his name.

We would just like him to know:

• How very much we appreciated his kindness in stopping to help us.

• Whatever he did to fix our car, it runs better than it has in years.

• We were not only on time for the game, our team won!

May I thank Herald staff writer Kurt Baer, personally, and also on behalf of the Northwest Community Hospital Foundation for his coverage of our Telecare Program. When we feel that we have accomplished something worthwhile, that is enough satisfaction in itself, but "front page" coverage is an added bonus that we all admittedly enjoy. I want to thank Mike Klein very much for having my letter published in The Herald and I want to thank all the wonderful people for sending me cards and letters from Arlington Heights and the surrounding areas. I received get well cards, letters, Easter cards and birthday cards, and a few people sent me gifts of money and candy. I received 268 cards and 22 letters, a total of 290, and it sure made my Easter and my birthday a happier one. I lived in Arlington Heights in 1954 for 11 months. I am a 51-year old disabled veteran of World War II. Anyone still wishing to send me a get well card, letter or anything to read would be very much appreciated.

God Bless you all.

Today is Monday, May 3, the 124th day of 1976 with 242 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus.

Danish-American journalist and civic reformer Jacob Riis was born May 3, 1849.

On this day in history:

In 1919, U.S. airplane passenger service began when Robert Hewitt flew Mrs. J. A. Hoagland and Miss Ethel Hodges from New York City to Atlantic City.

In 1933, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross was sworn in as the first woman to be director of the U.S. Mint.

In 1940, Congress proclaimed the third Sunday in May as ' I Am An American Day."

In 1968,the United States and North Vietnam agreed to start peace talks in Paris.

The Lighter side

It's a toss-up as to what is sexier—the foot or the elbow

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former podiatrist, Dr. William Rossi, has written a book called "The Sex Life of the Foot and Shoe."

It develops the theme that "the foot is the mother of human sexuality."

"Without the feet," Rossi says, "the human figure as we know it would not exist." Which is certainly something to think about.

For one thing, we might all be walking around on our hands. Which definitely would be a setback for the libido. And wouldn't do much for basketball either.

The thesis that Rossi sets forth, while interesting enough, appears to conflict with the findings of Dr. Bargood Fie, author of the book "Where Would Sex Be Without Elbows?"

Fie says his studies indicate that elbow is the father of human sexuality. Or if not the father, at least a second cousin.

After reading a review of Rossi's book, I asked Fie about Rossi's assertion that the feet have been responsible for many love affairs through the ages.

Fie replied that for every affair that might be attributed to the feet, the elbow could get credit for 10.

"Nowadays," he observed, "about 90 per cent of the affairs start in bars or at cocktail parties. Alcohol breaks down inhibitions and otherwise tends to foster hanky panky.

"Now consider the important part that the elbow plays in the drinking process. Without elbow-bending, sex would hardly exist at all."

I quoted a passage from Rossi's book: "Females of the aristocracy in old Russia used to hire professional foot ticklers."

"How many people do you know who are turned on by elbow tickling?" I challenged.

Fie insisted that passage was misleading. "Members of the Russian aristocracy were apt to fall asleep while making love," he explained. "The foot tickling was needed to keep them awake."

I also asked Fie about Rossi's notation that the Greek poet Ovid "wrote a poem about playing footsies."

"I never heard of anyone writing a poem about playing elbowsies," I'ly said.

"Rubbing elbows is only a minor part of the role that elbows play in sexual stimulation," Fie retorted. "As is generally acknowledged by leading sexologists, the most sensuous form of bodily contact is the nudge.

"Nudging a member of the opposite sex with one's elbow is a universally recognized signal. It speaks volumes and is far more erotic than the entwining of toes. The elbow has a vocabulary all of its own.

Special black bra may help detect cancer

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

A bra incorporating liquid crystals — the stuff that makes a mood stone ring work — can help women in their monthly breast self-examination, according to Dr. Philip Starx, the noted radiologist.

Interviewed in New York, Dr. Starx, head of Guttman Institute, a pioneer breast cancer detection clinic, said he and Dr. Eric Flam, a physicist, will report on the special black bra Wednesday at a scientific meeting.

The bra changes colors in response to heat, the same as the mood stone ring. Cancerous tissue tends to be hotter than normal in most cases.

Dr. Starx said the report at the Third International Symposium on Detection and Prevention of Cancer, a meeting that opened Sunday in New York, will describe early investigation that show the black bra can be a tip-off for further investigation if it changes color when worn once a month, at the proper time.

HE LIKENED IT to thermography — a heat picture of the breast. Sometimes, but not always, a "hot" thermogram will show early cancer in a breast.

"My feeling," Dr. Starx said, "is that this can be used in connection with the monthly breast self-examination program."

As he described it, the BEBI — for Breast Examination Bras Inc. — is first worn during an examination in a physician's office. The doctor takes a color photo of the woman in her BEBI.

The woman keeps the picture with her medical records at home. Once a month, after her period and the time recommended for a breast self-examination, the woman would do the manual exam, put on her BEBI, then stand in front of a mirror.

SHE WOULD COMPARE the color of the bra in the mirror with the original color picture. If the bra instead of showing up black or brownish gives off hues of yellow or blue or green, it would show greater heat.

"This would be an added stimulus and a part of breast self-examination education programs," Dr. Strax said.

Early detection is the motivation behind the bra, according to Dr. Flam, of East Brunswick, N.J.

"You look at the statistics," he said in an interview, "and you see 95 per cent of the breast cancer is found by women themselves. But a lot of it isn't found early enough.

"Anything that would encourage more women to regularly examine their breasts ought to help to find more cancers early."

THAT'S PRECISELY why Dr. Strax said he's looking into the BEBI. He's going to broaden clinical testing of the special bra at the Guttman Institute in New York, a free breast detection clinic that helped to show that mammography helps detect some early cancers.

He is associate clinical professor of community and preventive medicine at the New York Medical College and author of a best-selling book, "Early Detection: Breast Cancer Is Curable."

"If we find breast cancers earlier we could do less radical surgery," he said.

The liquid crystals, whose use on the medical front pre-dated their use in the mood-stone ring, are crystal particles that change color in reaction to heat The mood stone ring really doesn't reflect mood — just skin temperature, which reflects inside heat.

TAPES OF LIQUID crystals have been used in many newborn nurseries in hospitals making it easier to take infant temperatures and easing discomfort to the infant.

This was after it had been demonstrated that the heat on the skin over the liver would show if a fever were present or not.

In nurseries, where this tape is used, it is placed over the infant's liver. The nurses, by pulling up the little baby shirts, can tell by the color of the tape if the infant is running a fever.

An abstract of the Strax-Flam paper made this point:

"Any differences between the thermal patterns in the photograph and those seen in the mirror is an indication for the woman to contact her physician for a further examination."

A boutique look replaces garage sale dumpiness when Mary Ann Hoffman puts her talents to work.

From remnants and rummage

A unique wardrobe is born

by BARBARA LADD

She used to say she was a junkie until one of her children said it might be better to use the term junker. Yet that doesn't quite describe what Mary Ann Hoffman, Downers Grove, does.

Speaking to the North Cook County Homemakers annual meeting last week in Schaumburg, she displayed a seven-piece wardrobe, complete with blazer and long skirt, made for $21 And a vest and matching hat cost her 25 cents, she said.

A bit of yarn, some remnants and "finds" at local rummage sale or junk shops are all it takes to have a unique wardrobe, Mary Ann told the Homemakers. Oh . . . a little imagination helps, too.

She doesn't remember being inspired by anyone to turn junk into "junque," she said. Rather, she blames her addiction on her German grandmother who insisted nothing could be thrown away. "Have you ever known a German who could throw anything away?" she asked.

BUT MRS. HOFFMAN'S philosophy goes beyond that. "If something is on sale, you can't afford not to buy it," she explained jokingly.

With her Neiman-Marcus or Bonwit shopping bag under arm, she makes the resale shop circuit, searching for something-for-nothing.

Once, for $3 she bought a dress with the original price tag still attached. It was marked $300, said Mrs. Hoffman. She wanted only the trim from it.

Though Mrs. Hoffman said she "unsuccessfully took home economics in a convent boarding school for three years," her skills at the sewing machine are obvious. She has done custom design and dressmaking on a commercial level, privately sold designs under her own "Mary Ann Original" label and taught millinery, sewing, fabric design and other arts and crafts.

SHE IS ESPECIALLY good at sewing circles. Out of a circle of fabric 45 inches in diameter and slit in two places, she fashions stoles ("If you don't have a floor-length mink, don't worry about it"), smocks, ponchos and hooded vests. And "if the touche (buttocks) is a little bigger," she said, use 48-or 60-inch diameter cloth to cover it up.

She also makes expandable skirts ("In case you eat more than just a piece"), pillows, purses and men's vests, along with a seemingly endless list of other items.

Sometimes her junque backfires.

SHE MADE HER husband a vest from upholstery material, and he wore it to a friend's home. Unfortunately, all the living room chairs were of the same fabric. And if drapery fabric is used, "Just be sure you're not wearing what's on the wall," she said. "Otherwise you might not get talked to all evening."

Also, some "finds" take on a dubious flair when other costs are considered. A 75-cent piece of material required an unusual color of pink yarn for trim. "I carried around that fabric longer than I carried any of my kids. Finally I found just the right shade." The yarn cost $8.

Another time she went to Milwaukee to a sale and found some brocade for $2. However, just the tolls along the way added up to $3.60.

Pants crease should end seven inches below waist

Dear Eunice Farmer,

Whenever I press the crease in the pants I have made, the crease seems to come to the end of the front darts which makes a pucker at the end of the dart. What am I doing wrong? Is is the dart or the pressing?—Loretta Z.

Dear Loretta,

You are pressing the crease too far up. The crease should never interfere with the darts. The darts at the front of your pants should be very short and small, not longer than about 3 to 4 inches. Taper them so fine that there is no pucker at the end.

When pressing the crease in the pants legs, end the crease about 7 inches below the waistline, front and back.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I am making a dress for my daughter's wedding and having a terrible time with the back zipper closing The dress pattern called for the back slit to be open to almost the waist and then put together with small loops and buttons. I decided to close the back with a zipper instead. The dress is cut with the center back on the bias and no matter what I have done, the zipper buckles. What can I do to prevent this?—Mrs. M. B.

Dear Mrs. M.B.,

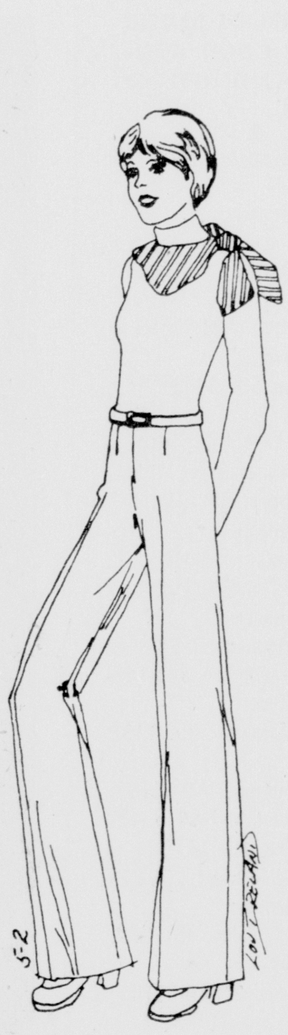
I'm sorry, but there is no way I have ever found to successfully put a zipper in a completely bias dress without pulling. Your first clue would have been when the pattern itself had an opening with only a few loops and buttons to close part of it.

I would suggest you close whatever part of the back you wish closed with the loops and tiny buttons they suggest, at least to the waistline. It is not too difficult to put a 7-inch zipper in the skirt. The shorter length is more manageable.

Since the fabric of the dress will be cut on the bias, and the zipper tape is on the straight, you must remember to stretch the bias seam, not ease it in. If you stretch it enough and use a feather light zipper, you should have fairly good results with this.

If any of you have worked out a method of placing a long zipper in a bias seam, I would appreciate your idea. Recently I had the pleasure of spending some time with a designer who also does his own workroom supervision. I asked him this question and he told me quite bluntly "there was no way."

It's best to avoid details that will only cause you extra problems. Make sewing a real joy by your choice of pattern and fabric and the knowledge of your own limitations.



Eunice Farmer's "Flip Cape" is a perfect accessory for today's fashions. For complete instructions, address a long envelope to yourself, put 13 cents postage on it and enclose it with 25 cents in an envelope addressed to Eunice Farmer, in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

Please give us some hints about purchasing a new sewing machine. I know my husband is going to get me one for Mother's Day, but I'm afraid he won't get me the machine I would like to have (although today I think I would be happy with almost anything new).—Martha B.

Dear Martha B.,

A sewing machine can be a joy forever and really make sewing fun, or it can be the most frustrating gadget in the world. So it's a good idea to give lots of thought to your purchase before you make it, instead of being sorry later. Too many husbands are taken in by advertising and try to surprise their wives. With an important purchase like this, it would be best to simply tell her about your gift to her and let her make the decision. Sewing machines today are very expensive; they should not be purchased on a whim.

Sew simple

by Eunice Farmer

Look for the sewing machine designed for your particular sewing needs. Check with your friends to see which ones are completely happy. Buy from a resource you have complete confidence in, not a fast-talking salesman who makes the best deal on the spot only to leave you literally stranded later. Don't buy the same machine your mother or grandmother had just because of the name. Today there are many new machines on the market that have proved to be of better quality than the old ones.

When you go on your shopping spree, take along a bag of small pieces of fabrics you have had trouble sewing with and insist they let you actually sew on these to check the stitch for yourself. The old sewing machine gimmick is to sew on a firm piece of muslin. Any machine can perform with this, but this is not the fabric you're likely to work with today. You'll be sewing with all types of knits, firm to sheer, Qianas and stretch fabrics.

Check the buttonholes to see if the samples are perfect. With today's fashions I can't think of anything more important. You'll be using this detail for many garments. If possible, try to arrange to take the machine home with you for a few days to actually sew at leisure. If this can't be arranged, spend some time in the shop sewing; you should be doing the testing, not the salesperson.

If sewing lessons are available on your new machine, by all means take them. You'd be amazed how much your machine can do for you if you know all the tricks. Make your sewing a dream, not a frustration. Select carefully.

Special black bra may help detect cancer

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

A bra incorporating liquid crystals — the stuff that makes a mood stone ring work — can help women in their monthly breast self-examination, according to Dr. Philip Starx, the noted radiologist.

Interviewed in New York, Dr. Starx, head of Guttman Institute, a pioneer breast cancer detection clinic, said he and Dr. Eric Flam, a physicist, will report on the special black bra Wednesday at a scientific meeting.

The bra changes colors in response to heat, the same as the mood stone ring. Cancerous tissue tends to be hotter than normal in most cases.

Dr. Starx said the report at the Third International Symposium on Detection and Prevention of Cancer, a meeting that opened Sunday in New York, will describe early investigation that show the black bra can be a tip-off for further investigation if it changes color when worn once a month, at the proper time.

HE LIKENED IT to thermography — a heat picture of the breast. Sometimes, but not always, a "hot" thermogram will show early cancer in a breast.

"My feeling," Dr. Starx said, "is that this can be used in connection with the monthly breast self-examination program."

As he described it, the BEBI — for Breast Examination Bras Inc. — is first worn during an examination in a physician's office. The doctor takes a color photo of the woman in her BEBI.

The woman keeps the picture with her medical records at home. Once a month, after her period and the time recommended for a breast self-examination, the woman would do the manual exam, put on her BEBI, then stand in front of a mirror.

SHE WOULD COMPARE the color of the bra in the mirror with the original color picture. If the bra instead of showing up black or brownish gives off hues of yellow or blue or green, it would show greater heat.

"This would be an added stimulus and a part of breast self-examination education programs," Dr. Strax said.

Early detection is the motivation behind the bra, according to Dr. Flam, of East Brunswick, N.J.

"You look at the statistics," he said in an interview, "and you see 95 per cent of the breast cancer is found by women themselves. But a lot of it isn't found early enough.

"Anything that would encourage more women to regularly examine their breasts ought to help to find more cancers early."

THAT'S PRECISELY why Dr. Strax said he's looking into the BEBI. He's going to broaden clinical testing of the special bra at the Guttman Institute in New York, a free breast detection clinic that helped to show that mammography helps detect some early cancers.

He is associate clinical professor of community and preventive medicine at the New York Medical College and author of a best-selling book, "Early Detection: Breast Cancer Is Curable."

"If we find breast cancers earlier we could do less radical surgery," he said.

The liquid crystals, whose use on the medical front pre-dated their use in the mood-stone ring, are crystal particles that change color in reaction to heat The mood stone ring really doesn't reflect mood — just skin temperature, which reflects inside heat.

TAPES OF LIQUID crystals have been used in many newborn nurseries in hospitals making it easier to take infant temperatures and easing discomfort to the infant.

This was after it had been demonstrated that the heat on the skin over the liver would show if a fever were present or not.

In nurseries, where this tape is used, it is placed over the infant's liver. The nurses, by pulling up the little baby shirts, can tell by the color of the tape if the infant is running a fever.

An abstract of the Strax-Flam paper made this point:

"Any differences between the thermal patterns in the photograph and those seen in the mirror is an indication for the woman to contact her physician for a further examination."

A boutique look replaces garage sale dumpiness when Mary Ann Hoffman puts her talents to work.

From remnants and rummage

A unique wardrobe is born

by BARBARA LADD

She used to say she was a junkie until one of her children said it might be better to use the term junker. Yet that doesn't quite describe what Mary Ann Hoffman, Downers Grove, does.

Speaking to the North Cook County Homemakers annual meeting last week in Schaumburg, she displayed a seven-piece wardrobe, complete with blazer and long skirt, made for $21 And a vest and matching hat cost her 25 cents, she said.

A bit of yarn, some remnants and "finds" at local rummage sale or junk shops are all it takes to have a unique wardrobe, Mary Ann told the Homemakers. Oh . . . a little imagination helps, too.

She doesn't remember being inspired by anyone to turn junk into "junque," she said. Rather, she blames her addiction on her German grandmother who insisted nothing could be thrown away. "Have you ever known a German who could throw anything away?" she asked.

BUT MRS. HOFFMAN'S philosophy goes beyond that. "If something is on sale, you can't afford not to buy it," she explained jokingly.

With her Neiman-Marcus or Bonwit shopping bag under arm, she makes the resale shop circuit, searching for something-for-nothing.

Once, for $3 she bought a dress with the original price tag still attached. It was marked $300, said Mrs. Hoffman. She wanted only the trim from it.

Though Mrs. Hoffman said she "unsuccessfully took home economics in a convent boarding school for three years," her skills at the sewing machine are obvious. She has done custom design and dressmaking on a commercial level, privately sold designs under her own "Mary Ann Original" label and taught millinery, sewing, fabric design and other arts and crafts.

SHE IS ESPECIALLY good at sewing circles. Out of a circle of fabric 45 inches in diameter and slit in two places, she fashions stoles ("If you don't have a floor-length mink, don't worry about it"), smocks, ponchos and hooded vests. And "if the touche (buttocks) is a little bigger," she said, use 48-or 60-inch diameter cloth to cover it up.

She also makes expandable skirts ("In case you eat more than just a piece"), pillows, purses and men's vests, along with a seemingly endless list of other items.

Sometimes her junque backfires.

SHE MADE HER husband a vest from upholstery material, and he wore it to a friend's home. Unfortunately, all the living room chairs were of the same fabric. And if drapery fabric is used, "Just be sure you're not wearing what's on the wall," she said. "Otherwise you might not get talked to all evening."

Also, some "finds" take on a dubious flair when other costs are considered. A 75-cent piece of material required an unusual color of pink yarn for trim. "I carried around that fabric longer than I carried any of my kids. Finally I found just the right shade." The yarn cost $8.

Another time she went to Milwaukee to a sale and found some brocade for $2. However, just the tolls along the way added up to $3.60.

Pants crease should end seven inches below waist

Dear Eunice Farmer,

Whenever I press the crease in the pants I have made, the crease seems to come to the end of the front darts which makes a pucker at the end of the dart. What am I doing wrong? Is is the dart or the pressing?—Loretta Z.

Dear Loretta,

You are pressing the crease too far up. The crease should never interfere with the darts. The darts at the front of your pants should be very short and small, not longer than about 3 to 4 inches. Taper them so fine that there is no pucker at the end.

When pressing the crease in the pants legs, end the crease about 7 inches below the waistline, front and back.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I am making a dress for my daughter's wedding and having a terrible time with the back zipper closing The dress pattern called for the back slit to be open to almost the waist and then put together with small loops and buttons. I decided to close the back with a zipper instead. The dress is cut with the center back on the bias and no matter what I have done, the zipper buckles. What can I do to prevent this?—Mrs. M. B.

Dear Mrs. M.B.,

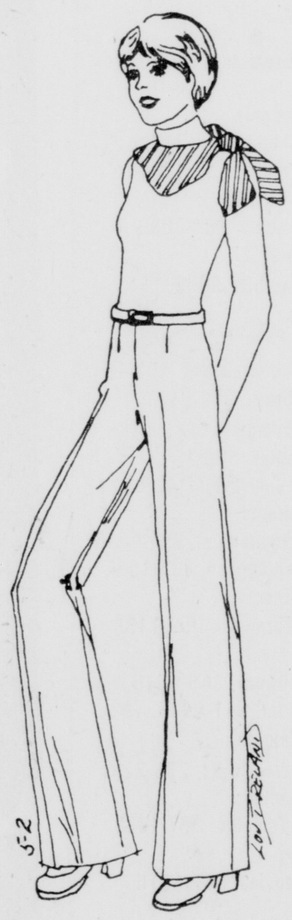
I'm sorry, but there is no way I have ever found to successfully put a zipper in a completely bias dress without pulling. Your first clue would have been when the pattern itself had an opening with only a few loops and buttons to close part of it.

I would suggest you close whatever part of the back you wish closed with the loops and tiny buttons they suggest, at least to the waistline. It is not too difficult to put a 7-inch zipper in the skirt. The shorter length is more manageable.

Since the fabric of the dress will be cut on the bias, and the zipper tape is on the straight, you must remember to stretch the bias seam, not ease it in. If you stretch it enough and use a feather light zipper, you should have fairly good results with this.

If any of you have worked out a method of placing a long zipper in a bias seam, I would appreciate your idea. Recently I had the pleasure of spending some time with a designer who also does his own workroom supervision. I asked him this question and he told me quite bluntly "there was no way."

It's best to avoid details that will only cause you extra problems. Make sewing a real joy by your choice of pattern and fabric and the knowledge of your own limitations.



Eunice Farmer's "Flip Cape" is a perfect accessory for today's fashions. For complete instructions, address a long envelope to yourself, put 13 cents postage on it and enclose it with 25 cents in an envelope addressed to Eunice Farmer, in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Dear Eunice Farmer,

Please give us some hints about purchasing a new sewing machine. I know my husband is going to get me one for Mother's Day, but I'm afraid he won't get me the machine I would like to have (although today I think I would be happy with almost anything new).—Martha B.

Dear Martha B.,

A sewing machine can be a joy forever and really make sewing fun, or it can be the most frustrating gadget in the world. So it's a good idea to give lots of thought to your purchase before you make it, instead of being sorry later. Too many husbands are taken in by advertising and try to surprise their wives. With an important purchase like this, it would be best to simply tell her about your gift to her and let her make the decision. Sewing machines today are very expensive; they should not be purchased on a whim.

Look for the sewing machine designed for your particular sewing needs. Check with your friends to see which ones are completely happy. Buy from a resource you have complete confidence in, not a fast-talking salesman who makes the best deal on the spot only to leave you literally stranded later. Don't buy the same machine your mother or grandmother had just because of the name. Today there are many new machines on the market that have proved to be of better quality than the old ones.

A stroke damages brain various ways

I read your article about strokes in the paper and was interested in your statement that stroke symptoms improved. A male, age 74, had a stroke and his swallowing was affected. He could feed himself but somehow the food would not go down. He would cough and it would all come up. Will the swallowing return? Also there is some weakness in his leg and he is unable to walk long or far although he can use his hands and move his arms and legs. They are not paralyzed. He can talk.

I have never heard of this type of stroke and would appreciate your explaining this to me as I have been under the impression that strokes affected either the right or the left side.

The term stroke really refers to damage of an area in the brain. It is commonly caused by obstruction of a major artery to part of the brain. It can be precipitated, however, by anemia, in the presence of artery disease, or a host of other underlying factors such as shock from some other medical problem.

A stroke may affect either the right or the left side of the body from the neck down. However, that is not the only way it may manifest itself. The entire functions of the body are relayed back to the brain in some way or another. That includes the ears, the vision through the eyes, even how the eyeballs move, up and down and sidewise, the movements of the facial muscles, how you stick your tongue out and indeed the swallowing mechanism.

The swallowing mechanism is fairly complex. It is dependent upon certain nerves that originate within the brain. When these cells are damaged, there will be swallowing difficulties. Whether or not the swallowing difficulty will be permanent depends on how well adaptive mechanisms can be developed and whether the area of the brain involved is permanently damaged or just not functioning properly because of localized swelling. The brain commonly swells from accumulated fluid at the time of injury or stroke.

THE NERVE cells connect to form a network much like a complex wiring diagram. Neurologists study body responses dependent upon nerve connections to pinpoint which areas of the brain have been damaged. They can sometimes tell which artery is involved if an obstructed artery is the cause of the stroke or pinpoint the location of a brain tumor.

Strokes may be small, transitory episodes sometimes called transitory ischemic attacks (TIA). Such episodes may produce temporary paralysis, but as soon as the short attack subsides there may be no residual findings. These are sometimes called little strokes.

Finally, remember that disease of the arteries to the brain may not affect the physical function but may affect the mental functions .The intellectual, emotional and character aspects o fthe personality involve different brain cells from those used for physical movement, speech and coordination. Good fur needs yearly cleaning and glazing

Dear Dorothy: Each year when I put my mink coat into storage I am pressured to have it cleaned and so forth, at considerable cost. I've heard that it dries out the fur to be cleaned too often. Do you know how often a fur coat needs cleaning to protect the fur? It is worn about 20 times a season. —Mrs. William Klett

A good fur coat should be cleaned and glazed once a year as the oil of the leather seeps through and mats the fur. Reputable furriers clean the fur with a special kind of sawdust — never with chemicals — and there would be no way for the fur to dry out when properly cleaned. The lining is cleaned separately and differently. A lovely fur coat is an investment that has to be kept up.

Dear Dorothy: Through trial and error, I found a method for stopping puppies' chewing on things like door frames, cabinet edges, carpeting and so forth. When you see your puppy beginning to chew, dampen a cotton ball with a liberal amount of Tabasco sauce and coat the area — wood kitchen chair rungs are a favorite target. The hot sauce can be sprinkled on steps — it cleans up easily. It works because the oil of cayenne doesn't evaporate. You may have to reapply occasionally, but it's a lot cheaper than millwork or furniture refinishing. Putting it on the floor strips of the threshold of a room that you want to be "off-limits" works, too. —Helene Zukof

Dear Dorothy: I boil a chicken with a few stalks of celery, an onion or a green bell pepper or all three. These season the chicken beautifully without having to add salt. Use the chicken for salad or sandwiches. The broth is then strained and all fat removed. It is frozen in small containers and used to boil vegetables for my husband who is on a salt-free diet. —Paula D.

Showhouse opens May 17

As the country celebrates its Bicentennial, Park Ridge School for Girls is marking its 100th year and its senior and junior boards of directors will be staging their ninth annual Designer's Showhouse.

The 1976 show house, located at 266 Linden, Winnetka, is an 18-room home featuring gracious family living for six in a manner dreamed of by many.

The three-story English tudor residence was built in 1912 for John Buckingham and Nelly Hibbard Buckingham. A number of prominent Chicago-area families have since lived in the home which is now on sale for $195,000.

It includes nine bedrooms and five fireplaces. Fifteen interior designers have "done" the house which will feature springtime hues of apricot, light green and white.

THE PUBLIC is invited to tour the showhouse from May 17 to June 6 daily from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., except Sunday, 1:30 to 5 p.m. Tours are also open Friday evenings from 7 to 9.

Tickets at $3.50 may be purchased at the door for $3.50 or in advance for $3 by sending a check to Mrs. Robert Hayes, 180 Firth Rd., Inverness, Palatine, Ill., 60067.

All proceeds will benefit the school which provides a home as well as a school for less fortunate Illinois teenage girls. Originally an industrial school for post-Civil War orphans it has now become a treatment center for girls who need structured environment to help them cope with the modern stresses of adolescence.

BESIDES MRS. Hayes other area women preparing for the showhouse include Mrs. John Dee, Mrs. John Clark, Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. Joseph Cole, all of Arlington Heights; Mrs. Leonard Ostrom and Mrs. Robert Howard, Mount Prospect; Mrs. Robert Wosneski,. Schaumburg; and Mrs. William Hull, Rolling Meadows.

Name JD Miss Illinois

Sheryl Rohrbein, honored queen of Bethel 105, Des Plaines, has been chosen as Miss Illinois Job's Daughter and will represent Illinois at the annual session of the Supreme Guardian Council to be held in St. Louis, Mo., in August. The coronation was held April 23 during the 54th annual session of the Grand Council of Illinois at the Holiday Inn, Rosemont.

The bethel's drill team won a first place trophy and the traveling trophy. Leslie Hissong, past honored queen and recorder was selected as grand Bethel librarian and Margaret Sjostrand, first messenger, was chosen as honorary state inner guard.

Happenings

Mom-Daughter lunch

Xi Eta Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will hold its annual mother-daughter luncheon Saturday, May 8, at Crepes and Steaks, Long Grove.

The program will include daughter enrollment at which time daughters will receive silver rosebud neneck-lases as the emblem of their future membership in Beta Sigma Phi. Information 882-5746.
